

Board adopts $13.4M capital plan

By Don Staruk

Selectmen Monday night approved an amended Capital Improvement Plan that calls for spending $13.4 million in fiscal 1994 and a total of $48.1 million during the next five years.

The plan calls for spending $3.25 million more than the town manager's original plan. The difference is $250,000 in fiscal '94 for design plans for additional classroom space at Andover High School, and $3 million in fiscal '95 for construction of that additional space.

The exclusion of those monies from the Andover public school students improved their scores on the Massachusetts Educational Assessment Program standardized tests last year, and continued to score above the state average. Andover High School students scored ninth out of 299 communities in the state, said Eileen Woods, assistant superintendent of schools.

The MEAP tests began in 1986 as one of a number of assessment tools designed to improve curriculum, compare performance at school, district and state levels.

Andover's losing a little piece of heart

J. Zenevitch managed Macartney's since it opened

By Don Staruk

R. J. Macartney's men's clothing store on Main Street will close in early January after 39 years of doing business in Andover and 112 years in the Merrimack Valley. Along with the end of an era of sorts, the closing will mark the end of a career for John Zenevitch, manager of the Andover store since it opened in 1953.

"We opened Dec. 3, 1953. So it was 39 years this past third," Mr. Zenevitch said last Friday.

Mr. Zenevitch had worked in retail since high school and had been at Macartney's Essex Street store in Lawrence for about a year when Amherst Macartney, son of the founder, R.J. Macartney, and father of current owners, Bob Macartney, of Argilla Road, and Gardner "Tom" Macartney, of North Andover, approached him with the idea of managing a new store in Andover. The business people in Lawrence in those days thought Andoverites were a might stuffy, and Mr. Zenevitch had his doubts whether Macartney's would be readily accepted here. But he needn't have worried, as residents were quick to adopt the store.

Town must pay more for trash burning

By Don Staruk

Andover may have to pay $412,000 in additional trash disposal costs to the operator of the trash-to-energy incinerator in North Andover where the town takes its solid waste.

A state arbitration panel recently ruled that Andover and the 22 other member communities of the North East Solid Waste Committee must pay Massachusetts Refusetech Inc., operator of the plant, $7.2 million to make up for low revenues at the plant, Buzz Stapeczynski, town manager, told the Board of Selectmen at a recent meeting. The $412,000 is Andover's share of the $7.2 million.

The member towns will also have to pay a total of about $12 million more through higher tipping fees over the last 13 years of the 20-year contract the group has with MRI.

The problem is that the plant was built, and the contract signed, when energy costs were going up and were predicted to continue to rise. Instead, low cost energy in plentiful supplies prevailed and the plant has not been able to realize the revenues it needed to operate at a profit.

Despite the added costs, the member communities still consider last week's decision a victory because MRI originally wanted $75 million, Mr. Stapeczynski said.

"I think the impact to the taxpayer could have been a lot worse," he told board members.

The panel rejected the additional claim that NESWC communities' trash caused the incinerator to burn hotter than predicted in the contract resulting in increased operating costs. The panel found that MRI failed to prove it was NESWC's trash causing the problem, since the facility also accepts trash from other sources.

The manager said he and other town officials, and officials from the other NESWC towns, will work with state legislators on a way to pay the settlement through a joint bond issue. The $7.2 million includes interest through Dec. 31 of this year, but it could take several months for member communities to come to an agreement on how it should be paid and interest will continue to accrue.

One bright point is that NESWC is in the process of refinancing the original bonds that paid for construction of the plant, and the interest savings to the towns during the remaining years of the contract could completely offset the increase due to the panel's decision last week, according to NESWC officials.

Rep. Coon supports term limits

Rep. Gary M. Coon, R-Andover, recently joined State Treasurer Joe Malone and other term-limits supporters at a press conference at the Statehouse in support of term limits for elected officials.

At issue, according to Rep. Coon, is Senate President Bulger's refusal to take a vote on the issue of term limits at a constitutional convention, the necessary first step in this proposal's long road to enactment. This is what he says has forced the supporters of term limits to head to the Supreme Judicial Court.

The complaint, which has been filed, is a civil action in the nature of mandamus and for declaratory judgment compelling the constitutional convention to take final legislative action on initiative amendment H4000. The action names Senate President

Local teacher finalist for area principalship

By Lisa Boudreau

Betty Ann Coyle, a learning specialist at South Elementary School, is one of three finalists vying for an elementary school principalship in North Andover. She was chosen from a field of 40 applicants for the Kirtledge Elementary principal job.

Betty Ann Coyle

Ms. Coyle, a 22-year veteran of the Andover public schools, was also a finalist this summer, for the South Elementary School principal post. She has a master's degree in education from the University of North Carolina and has successfully completed a principal certification program.

The other finalists are Richard Burchill, a Wakefield elementary school principal and Michael Jacobson, an Essex elementary school principal.

During Ms. Coyle's tenure in Andover she has worked with the elementary math curriculum committee, co-chaired the math steering committee and trained new staff and associate teachers. She also organized the pre-kindergarten screening program, presented various language-arts workshops and supervised and evaluated students in the Chapter 1 reading program.

When Ms. Coyle was interviewed for the Andover principal position last August, she said her strengths are her leadership skills, her ability to work with and bring together diverse personalities and teaching styles.

She lives in Windham, N.H. with her husband, Jack Coyle, the former principal at West Elementary School.

The North Andover School Committee plans to choose a principal at its Monday, Dec. 21, meeting.

Contract talks continue Jan. 6

Contract talks between the teachers' union and the School Committee will not resume until after the new year. The next meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, Jan. 6, said Tom Meyers, president of the teachers' union.

Last week all five members of the School Committee met alone with the mediator and the previous week union representatives did the same.

Mary Lyman, a member of the School Committee's negotiating team, said she was encouraged with the progress of the talks. She also said she was "thrilled" that the teachers have stopped picketing before and after school and have returned to the duties they volunteer for in the schools.

Burning season begins Jan. 15

This year's open air burning season will be from Jan. 15 through May 1, 1993. Anyone wishing to burn brush as allowed by the commonwealth's regulations will have to apply for a permit at the fire station.

The fee for this permit is $10, which covers the entire 1993 burning season. Once the permit has been issued, a number will be assigned and entered into the yearly burning log. Each day a person wishes to burn, she or he will have to call the fire station to see if weather conditions will allow burning that day. If burning is allowed, the person's name and permit number will be entered into the daily burning log. A copy of the commonwealth's regulations governing open air burning will be given out at the time of application for a permit.

Maine man found frozen in snow bank

A Maine man remained in critical condition Wednesday morning at Lawrence General Hospital where he was taken Tuesday morning after being found unconscious in a snow bank outside the Tage Inn on River Road.

David Elliot, 39, of Augusta, Maine, underwent seven hours of surgery Tuesday to remove a blood clot from his brain, according to police.

Mr. Elliot was found by a truck driver just before 8 a.m. outside the emergency exit door behind the inn, where Mr. Elliot was a registered guest. He had a bump on his head, a cut on his eye and was suffering from hypothermia. Patrolman Craig Poirier said doctors believe the blood clot was caused by the blow to his head.

Police still have not determined how Mr. Elliot was injured or how he ended up in the snow bank.

"It's under investigation right now as to how he got there," Officer Poirier said Wednesday. "He can't tell us because he's still critical."

"It looks like he fell" down in the parking lot, the officer said, but police were still trying to talk with employ-

School board to evaluate superintendent

By March of the new year the School Committee will have finished its evaluation of Superintendent Mark McQuillan. He was hired in January of 1991, and as part of his $75,000-a-year contract, Dr. McQuillan agreed to yearly evaluations of his job performance by the School Committee.

The committee will hold private and public interviews with the superintendent during the evaluation process. A final, written evaluation will be made available to the public, said Chairwoman Susan Jenkins at Tuesday night's board meeting.

Seeking babies and businessmen

The Townsmen is preparing two special sections. Baby will be published Jan. 14, and the newspaper is asking readers to send photos of their babies, as long as they have some connection to Andover. Include name, address, age, parents, grandparents, siblings and phone number.

Men in Business will be published Feb. 25. The Townsmen seeks nominations of interesting businessmen who either live or work, or both, in Andover.

Former post office building on Main Street will be sold

By Don Staruk

The former post office building on Main Street may soon be sold.

The property was advertised for sale two years ago and the U.S. Postal Service is now close to a deal with one of the original interested parties, according to Rose Vozzella, spokeswoman for the postal service.

"They are in negotiations with this person and are very close to closing the deal for sale of the property," Ms. Vozzella said last week.

James Hickey, of the real estate division of the postal service, said last month that he was close to signing a deal, but wouldn't say who the prospective buyer was. Ms. Vozzella also would not disclose any more information about the pending sale.

But last March, Nick Aznoian, of 62 Wild Rose Drive and owner of the House of Clean building at 77 Main St., adjacent to the post office property, said he had been negotiating for the purchase of the building with the postal service and was about 45 days away from signing a deal. Mr. Aznoian could not be reached to confirm whether he is the developer with whom the postal service is negotiating.

Mr. Aznoian said last spring that he had plans for developing the building, but would not elaborate. He also had been in touch with town officials regarding his

William M. Bulger, as the presiding officer of the convention, as the defendant.

"I fully supported Senate President Bulger's right to a full debate and a vote on Senate Bill 48 at the last Constitutional Convention. It is an issue that he and many of his constituents feel deeply about and would like to see on the ballot," said Rep. Coon. "Term limits is an issue that I and many of my constituents feel deeply about. I would ask the Senate President, in the days prior to the Dec. 16 Constitutional Convention, to openly and publicly urge the same level of courtesy to this issue that we accorded his concern this past week.

"As President Bulger himself has urged on other issues of concern to himself personally, the voters should be given a voice on this issue of term limits - it is their right - and it is our responsibility to defend that right. This legal action, therefore, is the necessary weapon in that defense."

Rep. Coon concluded, "If the Senate President should decide to hear this issue in tandem with following up on the 16th with a vote on limits, he will render our legal action moot, which is my hope."

Term limits is an issue which Rep. Coon has played an active role in for more than two years and one which was a major tenet of his platform in the last two elections. He is one of the original 15 signers of this important initiative.

plans for the building. Town officials said recently that Mr. Aznoian has talked with them about plans for the property but did not elaborate.

The building has sat idle and abandoned since the main post office moved to Stevens Street three years ago. The postal service at first tried to lease the building, but has since focused on finding a buyer for the property.

The building has a 3,200-square-foot ground floor, a full basement, a 372-square-foot dock and parking. The building sits on a 20,000-square-foot lot, which is about half an acre.

Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, said some of the delay in reaching an agreement for the sale of the building has to do with requirement for retaining the historical character of the structure.

Add steel to what you save

By Virginia Cole

It is time to begin to separate your steel cans — those are all the cans that are not aluminum or cardboard, the ones we call tin cans. They can no longer go into the incinerator, as of Jan. 1. Andover has made arrangements with our contractor, David White, to have these cans collected every third Saturday at the West Middle School parking lot on Shawsheen Road.

The first collection will be on Dec. 19 and continue each third Saturday thereafter. This is, of course, where you bring your plastic and aluminum. Nothing changes with that.

However, these cans must be flattened. Remove the tops and bottoms and step on the can. You do not have to remove the labels. Clean cans would be appreciated; for your own storage that would probably be best anyway. All household sizes are acceptable but if the cans have the molded bottom that won't come off by can opener, Mr. White will accept those. Be sure you do not mix these steel cans with aluminum or cardboard. Separate bags, please; they will be disposed of separately and sold for recycling sepaately. Our ability to recycle depends on markets for these goods so we must do some processing in order to have these materials sold.

Trash loads are inspected for bags of leaves and a load

FDA grants Genetics license for blood-clotting factor

In what is considered to be the most significant breakthrough to date in the treatment of hemophilia, Genetics Institute Inc. and Baxter Healthcare Corp., Hyland Division, announced that the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has granted Baxter a license to market and sell Recombinate Antihemophilic Factor (Recombinant) in the United States. Recombinate rAHF is a genetically engineered form of the human blood clotting factor VII indicated for the treatment of hemophilia A, the most common type of hemophilia.

"The availability of a genetically engineered factor VII concentrate represents the potential for significant improvement in the safety of treatment of bleeding episodes and the quality of life for people with hemophilia A," said Alan Brownstein, executive director of the National Hemophilia Foundation.

Recombinate rAHF is the result of a 10-year research and development collaboration between Baxter and Genetics Institute, which has offices in Andover. The recombinant product differs from currently available antihemophilic factors because it is derived through genetic engineering technology and manufactured in tissue culture, as opposed to being extracted from human blood. Because of this technology, Recombinate rAHF eliminates the risk of transmitting human viruses such as HIV and hepatitis.

"Genetics Institute is proud to have made the critical scientific and technical contributions which have brought us a genetically engineered form of factor VII," said Gabriel Schmergel, president and chief executive officer of Genetics Institute. "Recombinant factor VII, which is our company's first U.S. product, is an excellent example of how biotechnology can be applied to improve the quality of health care."

"The licensure of Recombinate represents a milestone in our 30-year history of developing the best available, most effective replacement therapies for the treatment of people with hemophilia," said John Bacich, president of Hyland. "We can now provide patients with the significant benefits of a genetically engineered product as the latest improvement in our long list of products and services for people with hemophilia."

Hemophilia A is a rare, hereditary disorder caused by the absence or marked deficiency of factor VII within the blood. The major problem for people with hemophilia is uncontrolled bleeding, which can lead to severe muscle and joint damage and even death. It is estimated that 17,000 to 20,000, or one out of every 7,500, U.S. males suffer from the disorder.

Recombinate rAHF was developed by isolating the human gene that codes for the active clotting component of human factor VIII, identified as factor VII:C from the human X chromosome

Karen Carney receives Presidential Award

Karen Carney of Andover has been awarded a special 1992 Presidential Award from the Home & Health Care Association of Massachusetts, a statewide association of home health agencies, for outstanding contributions to the home health care industry in the state.

Karen Carney

Ms. Carney, president of Carney Communications, an independent public relations and marketing consulting company in Andover, has served for two years as the chairperson of Home & Health Care's statewide Media/Public Relations Committee.

She was cited for her voluntary contributions of time and effort, which during the past 12 months resulted in the production of a 32-page how-to guide for Home & Health Care members on media relations, development of a new membership recruitment packet, an extensive statewide media campaign on home health care and Medicaid issues and a workshop on developing strategic public relations plans.

In presenting the award, Robert Lownds, president of Home & Health Care's board of directors, said, "You can have a great product but if no one knows you have it, where does that leave you? Once you have a good message, you want to get it out to your target audience. We've been very fortunate this year in getting our message out through the media/PR committee under Karen's guidance."

Ms. Carney, who founded Carney Communications four years ago, has more than 11 years' experience in public relations and marketing with companies ranging from start-ups and non-profits to Fortune 500s. She specializes in providing hands-on public relations assistance to service organizations, in particular health care organizations.

Previously the director of public relations for the Visiting Nurse Association of North Shore and the Visiting Nurse Association of Greater Lynn, she has been actively involved in the home health care industry for eight years.

A graduate of the College of the Holy Cross, Ms. Carney is also involved with the New England Hospital Public Relations & Marketing Association, the Public Relations Society of America, the American Society for Healthcare Public Relations & Marketing, the Mas-and inserting it into the DNA of a specialized animal cell. Once incorporated, the factor VIII gene directs the cell to produce substantial quantities of factor VIII protein. The factor VIII produced is then purified using immunoaffinity purification techniques.

According to Edward Gomperts, M.D., vice president and medical director at Baxter's Hyland Division, the development of a genetically engineered factor VIII will eliminate the risk of product shortages associated with blood-derived factor VIII and allow for greater quantities of Recombinate rAHF to be manufactured. "Because the manufacturing process is not dependent upon human blood, we can confidently produce a steady supply of product," he said.

Since the initiation of clinical trials in 1987, Recombinate rAHF has been evaluated in approximately 150 patients with no reported cases of viral transmission or any unexpected complications. The product has demonstrated a level of clotting activity comparable to that of blood-derived products and has been well tolerated in patients.

Baxter's Hyland Division has been a pioneer in the development of a number of significant products to improve hemophilia treatment. The company introduced the first commercial factor VIII concentrate for hemophilia in 1966. Since then it has developed improvements to advance the safety of blood-derived factor VIII including immunoaffinity purification procedures and application of a solvent/detergent viral inactivation treatment.

Hyland has supported research and development of Recombinate rAHF since 1982 and owns worldwide marketing rights to the product from Genetics Institute. Genetics Institute receives a royalty on worldwide sales and manufactures factor VIII in bulk for Hyland.

Genetics Institute was awarded a U.S.

patent covering various aspects of recombinant factor VIII in 1988. Rorer Inc. and the Scripps Institute have asserted claims that a patent they hold related to factor VIII is infringed by recombinant factor VIII products, including the Recombinate product. Baxter has challenged the validity of that patent as well as the infringement claims. Possible outcomes in the litigation, which could have a material adverse effect on Genetics Institute include damages, an injunction or other monetary payments. There are pending interference proceedings before the U.S. Patent Office relating to Genetics Institute's patent position on recombinant factor VIII. Genetics Institute and Baxter have entered into an agreement with Miles Inc., Genentech's worldwide licensee for recombinant factor VIII, to cross license both patents and orphan drug designation for factor VIII on a worldwide, royalty-free basis.

Genetics Institute is a leading biopharmaceutical firm engaged in the discovery and development of human pharmaceuticals through recombinant DNA and other technologies. The company has a diversified portfolio of licensed and proprietary pharmaceutical products at various stages of development, including treatments for anemia, hemophilia, cancer, infectious disease, bone damage, heart disease, inflammatory conditions and immune system disorders.

Baxter Healthcare Corp., headquartered in Deerfield, Ill., is the principal U.S. operating subsidiary of Baxter International Inc. Baxter is the leading international manufacturer and marketer of health-care products, systems and services. It offers 120,000 products to health-care providers in 100 countries. Baxter's Hyland Division, located in Glendale, Calif., will continue to manufacture and market its monoclonal antibody purified antihemophilic factor Hemofil M Antihemophilic Factor (Human), Method M, for the treatment of hemophilia A.

NECC's Observer wins award

Northern Essex Community College's student newspaper, the Observer, recently was recognized with national and regional awards in competitions that attracted top two- and four-year colleges and universities.

On the national level, the paper was awarded a National Pacemaker Award, presented each year to only five student newspapers from across the country, by the Associated Collegiate Press at its annual convention held earlier this month in Chicago.

In addition, the paper was presented a Regional Pacemaker Award and first place for Best of Show.

This was the second year in a row the college was awarded a National Pacemaker. Last year the college received third place for Best of Show.

IRS seeks volunteers

The IRS is looking for people to help lower income, handicapped and elderly people file their 1992 federal tax returns during the approaching tax filing season.

The IRS Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program recruits and trains volunteers in the preparation of basic tax returns. These volunteers will also help non-English speaking and other persons during the Jan. 1 to April 15 tax season.

"IRS trained volunteers prepare tax returns, answer tax questions, organize and coordinate the VITA assistance hours," said Gerard R. Esposito, Boston IRS district director. "The VITA sites are usually at schools, churches, libraries and other neighborhood locations."

Last year, more than 524 VITA volunteers assisted more than 5,303 taxpayers at 119 state sites.

Anyone interested in volunteering should contact the Taxpayer Education Coordinator at 1-800-829-1040.

CB. Assoc. lands $450k contract

The environmental consulting firm of C.B. Associates, which is located in Andover, was recently awarded a $450,000 contract with United Technologies/Hamilton Standard Division, which is headquartered in Windsor Locks, Conn.

The contract calls for C.B. Associates of Andover, in partnership with Quantum Compliance Solutions of Ann Arbor, Mich., to provide Hamilton Standard with environmental information management tools to be integrated within their manufacturing process.

According to Chris Burke, spokesperson for C.B. Associates, these tools will provide the organization with risk assessment, record keeping and reporting capabilities within the areas of environmental, safety and industrial hygiene.

C.B. Associates was founded in 1991 to provide assorted tools that help industries to maintain compliance with the ever-changing environmental regulations through automated preparation of necessary regulatory filings and assist in effectively managing their programs and activities.

United Way is half way there

The United Way of Merrimack Valley campaign has reached 50 percent of its $6 million goal.

However, the 1992-'93 fund-raising drive is running 2 percent behind last year for accounts that are finalized compared to their previous year's campaign and may fall short of goal. The economy and company layoffs have turned the fund-raising effort on behalf of 60 member agencies into a rollercoaster ride. Though there have been many successful campaigns to report, there are just as many campaigns falling short of their goal.

One highlight of the drive is individual gifts, which are up 56 percent over last year. The individual-giving category is comprised of professionals, contributors who do not give through payroll deduction and leadership givers. Leadership giving is recognized through the newly created Merroh Awke Society for individuals who contribute $1,000 or more annually to the United Way.

"What's really hurting us is the economy," said Paul Miller, campaign chairman and president of Lawrence Savings Bank. "The United Way of America issue has come up, but the majority of the companies are reporting decreases in campaign results because of a smaller employee base."

Corporate giving is also down, Mr. Miller said, due to the weak economy.

"United Way and other charitable contributions are usually an afterthought when a company's profitability level declines."

He also said the campaign is wrapping up quickly, and encouraged anyone who had not made a contribution as yet to give.

"The need has increased dramatically," Mr. Miller said, "for the same reason our campaign is down — the economy. People who have given in the past may now be unemployed and in need of services."

Anyone wishing to contribute directly to the United Way can do so by sending a check to: United Way of Merrimack Valley, P.O. Box 527, Lawrence, Mass. 01842.

The United Way of Merrimack Valley serves 34 communities in northeastern Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire.

Kenneth Gallant named to state advisory board

Kenneth A. Gallant, president and chief professional officer for the United Way of Merrimack Valley, has been appointed by Gov. William Weld to the statewide advisory board for the Department of Public Welfare.

"I am delighted to accept this appointment at a time when the commonwealth is actively pursuing a program of welfare reform," Mr. Gallant said. He is a member of the Lawrence Rotary Club, a director for Lawrence Savings Bank and a member of the Lower Merrimack Valley Regional Employment Board. He lives in Methuen.

THE REAL ESTATE CORNER

with Jean Fitzgerald & Pamela Lebowitz

GROOMING YOUR YARD

Does your yard have a smooth, green lawn, well-trimmed hedge, freshly painted fence, with bicycles and lawn tools stored neatly out of sight? One of the most important indicators of pride of ownership is a well groomed yard, and neighborhood pride can pay impressive dividends to homeowners.

Even if you don't plan to move soon, your cared-for yard could help your neighbors who are trying to sell their homes. If you all do your share to make your street look terrific, prospective buyers will find it especially attractive, and the demand for homes like yours is likely to increase. This will help nearby homes to sell for top dollar. Then when you sell or refinance yours, the neighborhood comparables will support a higher price. Yard work and gardening can turn into a relaxing and rewarding hobby that can pay off in beautiful flowers and higher property values.

For solid advice on buying or selling real estate, consult the professionals at Century 21 Minuteman Realty. Please call us at 475-1243, or stop by our office at 2 Elm Square.

ON CAMPUS

Allison Foster, a resident of 28 Cross St. and a class of '94 history/English major at Union College in Schenectady, N.Y., plans to study in Greece this winter under Union's term abroad program. Students spend a 10-week college term in a foreign country and receive full credit for their work. The students on this term abroad will study a classics course on "war, the individual and the country; and the nature of the Greek polis through readings in The Republic." The students will also take a course on contemporary Greece and classical Greek archaeology, and study at College Year in Athens School.

Among the 1,047 graduates at Boston University this fall was Andover resident Nancy Berry, who received an Ed.M. in teaching English as a second language.

Douglas A. Gordon, class of '96, is a member of the first-year class at New York University in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Professor Richard Newman, chairman of the creative arts division at Bradford College, has been named the recipient of the school's first Jane Walker Kopf Chair in art history and theory.

In receiving the honor, Mr. Newman, who will hold the chair for three years, reflected on his 27-year Bradford career. "Since coming to Bradford in 1965, with its fine liberal arts tradition, my own views about education have continued to evolve and expand.

"Over the years the arts faculty has continued to share and support my belief that the study of art history and theory provides a rich basis for personal artistic growth and expression," he said.

The chair is provided through a 12-year charitable lead trust endowment from 1939 graduate Jane Walker Kopf, who lives in Russell, Pa., and Ocean Ridge, Fla.

Raymond K. Mann III, a senior anthropology major at Ripon College, is spending a semester in Pune, India, while enrolled in the college's India studies program.

He is the son of Raymond and Mary Kay Mann of Andover.

Students participate in an intensive 10-week orientation term, including language study, at one of the ACM colleges and then spend six months in Pune living with Indian families.

Both traditional and highly industrialized, Pune is considered to be an ideal place to observe the interaction of tradition and modernity that characterizes India today. Students are enrolled at the Tilak Maharashtra Vidyapeeth, where they continue language instruction, choose four other courses and complete independent study projects.

A variety of extracurricular activities is available: music and dance recitals, field trips to nearby cultural sites and religious festivals.

Ripon College, located in Ripon, Wis., provides the option of off-campus study to enrich students' educational and cultural experiences and help them explore career options.

Kimball A. Prentiss was one of 10 students at the Mercersburg Academy named Advanced Placement (AP) Scholars by the College Board in recognition of exceptional achievement on the college-level AP examinations. Nationally only about 11 percent of the 388,000 students who took AP examinations in May performed at a sufficiently high level to merit such recognition.

Ms. Prentiss, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John K. Prentiss '65, qualified as a scholar. She is the granddaughter of the late George E. Prentiss of the class of '39 and great-granddaughter of the late Medary A. Prentiss '14.

Mercersburg Academy is a college preparatory boarding school in south-central Pennsylvania.

Andrea M. Napolitano, a junior at St. Michael's College in Colchester, Vt., will be visiting her parents, Susan and Dick Napolitano of Olde Berry Road, before leaving for England in January. Ms. Napolitano has been selected to participate in the Semester in England Program administered through the education department of Trinity College of Vermont. The program is designed to provide students with the experience of studying and living for one semester at Bath College of Higher Education in Bath, England. The student will gain experience living the British culture, meeting new friends, traveling through Europe and working with young children while student teaching in British schools. Ms. Napolitano, a 1990 honors graduate of Andover High School, is in her junior year as an elementary education major. She has consistently achieved dean's list recognition.

Stephen F. Napolitano, son of Susan M. and Richard J. Napolitano of Olde Berry Road, recently graduated from Assumption College in Worcester with a bachelor of arts degree in social and rehabilitative services. He has accepted a position as a counselor with the Worcester Area Mental Health Center.

Stephen played varsity soccer all four years for the Assumption Greyhounds and captained the squad in his senior year. He also played varsity tennis and was recognized as an Outstanding Senior Athlete at a recent Assumption College Senior Athletic Awards dinner, where he was given his varsity letter and a watch.

Stephen F. Napolitano

Mr. Napolitano is a 1988 graduate of Andover High School, where he played varsity soccer and tennis and was selected as a MVC All Star in both sports by conference coaches and the Lawrence Eagle Tribune.

Elaine Marie O'Brien, daughter of Margaret Mary and Joseph Edward O'Brien of Sutherland Street, has become a member of the University of Massachusetts chapter of Golden Key.

Golden Key is a national academic honor society formed to recognize and encourage outstanding scholastic achievement in all fields of study. Membership is by invitation to juniors and seniors who have maintained at least a 3.5 cumulative average on a 4.0 scale.

Ms. O'Brien is a member of the class of 1994 majoring in sociology. She graduated from Andover High School in 1990.

Bartley Parker, son of Bernard and Marion Parker of 18 Tewksbury St., received a degree in economics at Westfield State College. His minor was finance. Mr. Parker was a member of the varsity lacrosse team and of the Economic Society. He made dean's list. He interned at Sallie Mae Regional Boston Office and the Westfield State financial aid office. Mr. Parker is a graduate of Andover High School.

Cynthia A. Pilla of Andover, a student in the business studies/business administration program at New Hampshire College in Manchester, was one of the more than 200 honor students inducted into Delta Mu Delta, which recognizes high academic achievements by college students in business-related programs. To qualify for this honor, a student must have attained at least junior standing (60 credits) and a cumulative grade point average of 3.20 or higher on a 4.0 scale.

Matthew B. Radack, son of Alice and Monte Radack, has enrolled as a first-year student in the College of Arts and Sciences at Northwestern University for the 1992-'93 academic year. He is a graduate of Andover High School, where he was a member of the ski team and was named an outstanding German student. Mr. Radack was a member of the National Honor Society.

Holly Radice of Andover, a senior in the New York University Gallatin Division, is serving an internship at the Council on the Environment of New York City, working in Manhattan's High School for Environmental Studies with the school's studio art teachers. The project the school is currently engaged in, the Murray Hill Bay Project, concerns the impact of the construction of a heliport in that section of the city.

Ms. Radice has a dual major at NYU - Latin American studies and environmental studies. She also attended the State University of New York at New Paltz.

The NYU Gallatin Division, which celebrated its 20th anniversary last year, is the center for individualized study at NYU.

Debora Sullivan, daughter of Jane K. Sullivan of Aspen Circle and Eugene T. Sullivan of Wilmington, has become a member of the University of Massachusetts chapter of Golden Key.

Golden Key is a national academic honor society formed to recognize and encourage outstanding scholastic achievement in all fields of study. Membership is by invitation to juniors and seniors who have maintained at least a 3.5 cumulative average on a 4.0 scale.

Ms. Sullivan is a member of the class of '94, double-majoring in animal science and veterinary medicine. She graduated from Andover High School in 1990.

Two residents of Andover received bachelor of science degrees from Wentworth Institute of Technology.

Matthew S. Slayton received his degree in electronic engineering technology and Eric D. Tetraault received his in building construction technology.

Berklee College of Music has accepted electric bassist Joseph E. Wescott, son of Robert and Gretchen Wescott, for admission to the college. He will study under a faculty of music educators and professional musicians fluent in contemporary music styles. Mr. Wescott will undertake a program of music study in common with some of the most well-known performing and recording artists in the professional music industry, alumni of the Berklee program.

Andover residents David Frothingham, Kelly Moynihan and Jennifer Brown have been named to the dean's list at Colby College in Waterville, Maine, for the spring semester.

Mr. Frothingham, a senior German and economics major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David A. Frothingham. Ms. Moynihan, a junior administrative science major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Moynihan. Ms. Brown, a sophomore majoring in chemistry and biology, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Brown.

Manish H. Shah of Andover, a second-year student at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio, has been awarded a Provost's Scholarship of between $6,000 and $7,000.

Deirdre Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sullivan of 6 Monahan Lane, was named a Sarah Williston Scholar by Mount Holyoke College. This honor was established by vote of the faculty in the early 1900s to designate sophomore honor scholars and is based on the student's freshman and

AHS, athletes work to wipe out discrimination

A black professional football player, a white professional basketball player and a female Olympic rower visited Andover High last month to discuss all kinds of discrimination with students. This was the second year members of Project Teamwork came to the high school to talk about racial, as well as gender discrimination.

Lin Dawson, formerly of the New England

Patriots football team; Holly Metcalf, a gold-medal Olympic rower; and Bob Macabe, a former professional basketball player, are members of Project Teamwork. The mission of the program, begun several years ago at Northeastern University, is to reach out to high school students around the country and heighten their awareness to the damage all kinds of discrimination and prejudice can cause.

Senior Bert Vining won the high school's Project Teamwork logo contest. Junior Sarah Goldin won the school's essay contest. She was asked to define prejudice and explore the role of discrimination in today's society.

The two received $25 each, and a gift certificate to a local book store, said Janice Fitzgibbons, the faculty adviser for Andover High's Project Teamwork.

All menus are subject to change.

Children's Room news

Due to last Saturday's weather conditions, the Children's Room at Memorial Hall Library was unable to hold the scheduled children's story-concert, which was to be performed by Pastiche.

The program has been rescheduled for early April 1993, when Pastiche will perform an Easter-time special called "Bunnytales." New tickets will be issued in late March.

Preschoolers and their parents are invited to a half-hour showing of the following films on Saturday, Dec. 19, at 10 a.m.: Polar Express, Morris' Disappearing Bag and Night Before Christmas.

SCHOOLTALK

More than 50 sixth graders from the Pike School performed in concert at Academy Manor Nursing Home on Wednesday, Dec. 16. The students sang songs of the season, accompanied by their chorus director Larry Robertson.

For more than five years, young choristers from Pike have gone out into the community at holiday time. The program was followed by a reception with conversation between the students and Academy Manor residents.

The Professional Center for Handicapped Children, 32 Osgood St., recently had their annual Holiday Party at the Andover Elks Lodge. The staff, children and their families appreciated the Elks having donated the use of their facilities. A festive time was had by all.

Melissa Daher, a senior at Our Lady of Nazareth Academy in Wakefield, has achieved honor roll status at the school with third honors: a 3.3 or higher grade point average.

Heather Curtis

Andy Goldstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Goldstein of Andover, was recently named to the honor roll at Lawrence Academy, a private, co-educational college preparatory high school in Groton. The junior was honored in recognition of his outstanding academic performance during the fall term. He achieved honor roll while carrying a course load that includes Math 3, Chemistry, English 3, the Election of 1992 and U.S. History.

Heather Curtis, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. Manning Curtis of Andover was also honored. She received a foreign language department commendation in recognition of her outstanding effort in Spanish 4 during the fall term. Department chairman William Mees complimented Heather, a junior, on her hard work and dedication to her studies. He noted, "Heather has committed herself to the hard work that is necessary to achieve success in the study of a foreign language. She

ANDOVER
AS I REMEMBER IT
James D. Doherty

Only a limited number available.....

A story, read by thousands, of the life and times of a small New England Town during the 20th century -- as seen and remembered by one of Andover's best known citizens.

"Your book is a treasure. I enjoyed reading it and learning about the Town of Andover"

EILEEN WOODS
Assistant Superintendent of Schools

"I appreciated your book not only for what it told me about the town but also, perhaps even more, for what it revealed about the author"

BRAD PEARSON

"Congratulations on your book - it sure brought back memories - I look forward to the second book"

HELEN LEETE
Phillips Andover Academy

"Jim, I just finished reading your book. What nostalgia! What great memories! What a great job you did. I will reread it often through my remaining years"

This year's St. Robert's Country Day School's annual fund-raiser was held with a new twist. Instead of the usual "lunch with Santa," the moms at the nursery school held a brunch with Santa.

Three hundred pupils, siblings and parents were present to greet Santa and have their photo taken with him and to enjoy the magic of a juggler/magician.

St. Robert's Country Day School will begin its 24th year of operation in January. The school

Five eighth-graders from the Pike School were among more than 200 students who met in Nashua, N.H., last month for the 1992 congress of the Merrimack River Watershed Education Project. Early in the fall, young scientists from more than 30 schools in Massachusetts and New Hampshire conducted tests using water from the Merrimack River and its tributaries. The conference enabled students to meet and present their findings. Pike presented information based on testing done at different spots along the Shawsheen River as it flows through Andover. The findings prompted students to discuss how its water quality might be improved.

Andover's drama students tackle plays with complex characters, significant social problems

Second AHS cast performs Neil Simon's Brighton Beach Memoirs

By James B. Krasnood

The second cast at Andover High School performed Brighton Beach Memoirs on Sunday, Dec. 6. This talented, seven-member cast performed roles as members of the Jerome family. The Jeromes were a lower-middle-class Jewish family on the eve of World War II, saddled with various family problems, which they solve with patience, honesty and sincerity.

Todd Buonopane as Eugene, a teen-aged aspiring writer who is becoming concerned with his own physicality and the attractiveness of girls, is a naturally comic actor. Of great interest was the fact that this reviewer saw both casts and was simply astonished at how Todd extracted humor out of lines that his counterpart in the other cast (reviewed in the Dec. 3 issue) treated as serious lines.

Kate, Eugene's mother, played by Julie Gediman, was both verbally and physically expressive as the mother of a clan whose problems sometimes overwhelmed her.

Jon Weiner as Stanley

brought width to the role.

Instead of playing Stanley as an intense young man distressed by problems he created, Jon played a Stanley befuddled by the difficulties in which he found himself. His relationship with his father, Jack, as played by Geoff Lewis, was a beautiful moment in the play; Geoff, emanating his gentle but highly principled code of honesty and morality, points out the good and bad aspects to his son's conduct in defending a fellow employee who could not defend himself. Geoff's quiet, controlled performance suggested the reserves of strength that Jack had for advising the family members how to solve their problems.

Jen Tobin as Blanche, a widowed aunt forced to live with the Jeromes with her two children, Laurie and Nora, put in a superlative performance in a difficult role that alternated between her being weakly indecisive in matters that concerned her own family, but strong in vociferously arguing against the myopic prejudices that Kate wrongly possessed against neighbors.

Danielle O'Connell's Nora was an appropriately pouty and, at times, angry young lady whose feistiness yet ultimate love for her mother was fully displayed.

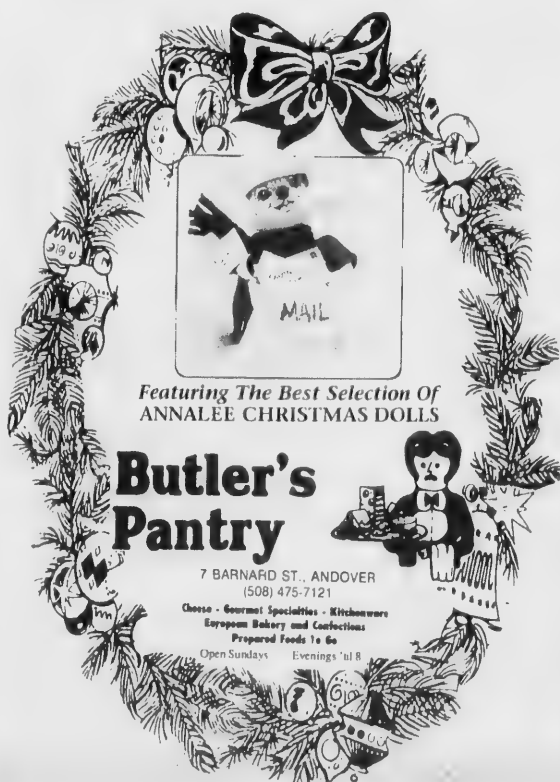

Laurie, played by Joanna Zimmer, was a highly credible teen-ager, at times showing percipient adult knowledge and at times appropriately showing the illogical behavior characteristic of the young.

All in all, Andover High School should be proud of two equally able acting troupes that brought both great entertainment and ability to the Collins Center stage and wise illumination to Simon's comic play, Brighton Beach Memoirs.

Andover High School shows great wisdom in permitting its young drama students to tackle plays with complex characters and with significant social problems.

(Editor's note: James B. Krasnood is a parent and is president of the AHS Parent Advisory Council (PAC). He practices law in Boston.)

The following students from Andover were awarded degrees from New Hampshire College Graduate School of Business in Manchester, N.H., on Sept. 19: Ghunaim N. Al-Bacmy and Daniel F. Leonard received master degrees in business administration.

Andover resident Karen Tylus recently graduated from the Youville Hospital and Rehabilitation Center's School of Practical Nursing, in the school's 65th class. Located in Cambridge, the 305-bed hospital and rehab center was founded in 1895.

While a nursing student, Ms. Tylus was awarded the James McElhenny Memorial Scholarship from the Cambridge Elks #839. The award, given annually for the past seven years by the Elks to students who demonstrate academic achievement and excellence in patient care, was established by the Elks in memory of the late Mr. McElhenny, a member of the Elks and husband of Henriette McElhenny, a long-time employee of Youville's School and member of the Youville Guild.

Two Andover residents have performed in one-act plays at Lynchburg College, a private school in Central Virginia. The one-act plays are performed and directed by students annually as part of the theater department's curriculum.

Julie Shaer, daughter of Susan Shaer of Andover and Peter Shaer of Wayland, was cast in the role of Mabel in Suppressed Desires by Susan Glaspell, in which a twist of fate occurs when a woman's husband and sister misinterpret her dream. Julie is a 1992 graduate of Chapel Hill-Chauncy Hall School in Waltham.

Tara Ann Switz played the role of Beth Hollender in Visitors From Chicago, Neil

Karen Tylus

Simon's comical look at a disastrous yuppie vacation in Beverly Hills. The daughter of Thomas and Barbara Swift of Andover is a 1989 graduate of the Tilton School in Tilton, N.H. She is a communication studies major with an emphasis in broadcast journalism.

Three Andover residents are attending Bryant College in Smithfield, R.I. Members of the class of '96 are: Elizabeth Davies of 3 Cardinal Lane; Melissa Dennis of 6 Seminole Circle; and Daniel Hinchey of 33 Rose Glen Drive.

Andover Baptist will present Christmas Eve candlelight service

Andover Baptist Church will present its annual Christmas Eve candlelight service Thursday, Dec. 24 at 7:30 p.m. This congregational hymnsing and retelling of the Christmas story is set in an atmosphere of greenery, candles and family worship.

The theme of light and truth are familiar to all who study the Bible. The Christ Child comes into the world as light with the star to guide others to receive that revelation from God. The candles are held individually to contemplate our calling to carry the light into the world.

Andover Baptist Church is located at 7 Central St., across from Memorial Hall Library. The public is invited.

► Christmas pageant: see page 38.

Merrimack Valley YMCA accepting applications for Christmas Vacation Club

The Lawrence Branch of the Merrimack Valley YMCA is accepting applications for its Christmas Vacation Club for children in grades 1-8. Activities include gym, swimming, art, cooking and a field trip. The program will operate Monday through Thursday, Dec. 28-31, from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Cost is $13 per day for members; $15 per day for non-members. Financial aid is available. For information, call Anne at 686-6191.

Lynn Loscutt is artist of month at library

The artist of the month at Memorial Hall Library is Lynn Loscutt from Andover, who says "I love to paint and travel. I keep a visual diary as I go. Often referred to as a painter 'on the go,' I have been privileged to travel in my mobile studio throughout the United States and fully explore some of the urban and wilderness landscapes." Her visual diary has recorded some exciting places with stimulating people. Russia, Africa, China, Turkey, France, sunrises in Kyoto and sunsets on the Gulf of Mexico are all in her painting.

UU Church celebrates solstice, Christmas season

The sermon topic by Rev. Peter T. Richardson on Sunday, Dec. 20, at 10:30 a.m. at the Unitarian Universalist Church of Andover will be "Origins of Christmas." The church is located at 6 Locke St.

Customs so important for this solstice festival — gift-giving, the birth of a child in a family circle, the celebration of light and hope at the darkest time of the year — are all ancient, dating from pre-Christian times and representing universal human themes.

Yule circle
A Yule Circle will be held Monday, Dec. 21, at 7 p.m. at 14 High Vale Lane. Yule fires were held in pagan Europe to help remind the sun to return and bring increasing light to the land. Attendees to the outside ceremony are asked to bring a stick for the fire and a votive candle or lamp. Carols, a dance and reading will be featured and refreshments will be shared afterward.

Christmas Eve service
A family candlelight service will be held at the Unitarian Universalist Church, at 7 p.m. Dec. 24. There will be special music by the choir, carols and readings. Each household is asked to bring a candle and candlestick.

A wassail party for all ages will be held afterward. For information, call the church at 475-4454.

BrookRidge celebrates with music

A musical "first" will take place Sunday, Dec. 20, at 10:30 a.m. at BrookRidge Community Church. The premier live performance of "Hallelujah," a gospel rendition of the annual classic from Handel's Messiah, will feature full rhythm section, choir and probably the congregation. This contemporary piece from the new recording, Handel's Messiah - A Soulful Celebration, is just one of the musical offerings as BrookRidge Church celebrates the Savior's birth in song. Recording artists LMX, the BrookRidge players presenting a dramatic piece, "Family Snapshots," a youth nativity pageant and the day's message, "Unwrapping Christmas Present," are all part of the Christmas Sunday Service.

BrookRidge meets each Sunday at 10:30 a.m. at West Elementary School on Beacon Street.

BrookRidge will hold a Christmas Eve Celebrative Service at 6:30 p.m. at Lincoln Hall, Route 133, West Boxford. The 45-minute celebration will include Christmas carols and a sketch.

OBITUARIES

Christopher Rizzo Former Lawrence ZBA member

Christopher J. Rizzo, 62, of Methuen died Saturday, Dec. 12, at Holy Family Hospital in Methuen.

Mr. Rizzo was born in Webster, and moved to Lawrence with his family at age 7. He lived in Lawrence until he moved to Methuen five years ago, attending the Oliver Grammar School and Lawrence High School. He received an associate's degree from Boston University and a bachelor's degree from Salem State College.

He was a technical sergeant in the U.S. Army during the Korean War and worked as an auditor for the state Division of Employment and Training for more than 30 years. At one time, he belonged to the Holy Rosary Church bowling league and volunteered as a leader for youth basketball and the service center of Greater Lawrence.

He was a former member of the Lawrence Zoning Board of Appeals.

Family members include his wife, Barbara J. (DeMinico) Rizzo, a teacher at the Hennessey School in Lawrence; son, Carl A. Rizzo of Methuen; daughter, Kristen Jo Rizzo of Methuen; mother, Josephine I. (DeFusco) Rizzo of Lawrence; brothers, Nicholas A. Rizzo of Andover and Raymond L. Rizzo of Louisville, Ky.; 11 nieces and nephews and two grandnieces and nephews.

A funeral Mass was to be celebrated Wednesday at 10:45 a.m. in Holy Rosary Church. Burial will follow in Immaculate Conception Cemetery, Lawrence.

Arrangements were by Polard Funeral Home, 233 Lawrence St., Methuen.

Andover Books and Prints, 68 Park St., is open noon to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, and 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday. "Tea at Three" is served from 3 to 4 p.m. on Sundays in the shop.

Like the teas, the open house is free and open to the public.

Flutist Jaime Weida is a junior at Andover High.

West Parish Church presenting its 16th annual outdoor Christmas pageant

West Parish Church presents its 16th annual outdoor Christmas pageant Sunday, Dec. 20, at 5 p.m. It takes place at the arch across the street from the church, at 129 Reservation Road.

The West Parish Church Christmas Pageant, which includes live animals, has become part of the Christmas tradition in the area. The story of the birth of Jesus is told through a re-enactment involving 60 members of West Parish Church. As Mary and Joseph, shepherds and wise-men find their way to the inn, the choir will lead the audience in carols that tell the story of that first night in Bethlehem.

Gail Newton portrayed Mary, and her son, Matthew Newton, played the infant Jesus in one of the past pageants.

The pageant also includes traditions such as the Little Drummer Boy and the Littlest Angel who come to worship the infant Jesus.

The public is invited to the pageant and festivities immediately afterward in Fellowship Hall. Hot chocolate, cookies and lentil soup will be served. There is no charge for any of the events.

West Parish Church is located at the intersection of Route 133 (Lowell Street) and Shawshen Road. For information, call the church between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. at 475-3528.

Plowing out

the state on Saturday, but the worst damage was along the coast, where high tides caused flooding and beach erosion, and further west in places like Worcester, with 32 inches.

The police and fire departments received a few calls for downed trees, and several minor skidding accidents, but there were no major power outages or accidents.

Friday's heavy rain changed to snow at about 2 a.m. Saturday in Andover and 17 inches of snow was on the ground by the time it stopped Sunday, Buzz Stapczynski, town manger, told selectmen Monday night.

"We had crews working continuously all weekend long," Mr. Stapczynski said.

Crews worked all night Friday, 24 hours on Saturday and until about 10 p.m. Sunday night before knocking off, according to Bob McQuade, director of the Department of Public Works. Town workers were at it again all day Monday and were expected to be back working overtime Tuesday night to remove the snow from critical areas such as downtown, Ballardvale and Shawsheen Square.

Nine town sander trucks, 13 or 14 town plows and 40-45 private contractors worked the storm. This was the first time the town called out all its crews and private contractors in a long while, said the town manager.

"We had a heck of a storm, we did a great job in fighting it, and hopefully there won't be too many more of these this year," Mr. Stapczynski said.

Mr. McQuade didn't know Tuesday how much of the town's $400,000 snow removal budget was depleted by the storm, partly because the cleanup was still continuing.

"I expect this will take at least one quarter to one third of the budget if not more, at least that much," Mr. McQuade said.

Mr. Stapczynski said he doubted whether the town could qualify for emergency aid from the state because the town did not suffer any serious damage. But the manager said he will monitor the state's response to the storm, and any flooding that might result from the storm, in case any aid is applicable.

Students stranded

The storm stranded 250-300 students at Phillips Academy. PA's holiday break began this week, but some students who had final exams Saturday, and others who had flights scheduled for Saturday, were stranded.

"We had about 300 kids left on campus," Beverly Henderson, director of public relations at the school, said Monday.

Those stuck included students from New York, California, and Texas, "even as close as Medford," Ms. Henderson said.

Housing them was not a problem as the students could just stay in the dorms another night. But feeding them posed another problem.

Fortunately, the faculty Christmas party was scheduled for Saturday night and John Bachman, executive assistant to headmaster Donald McNemar, came up with the idea of inviting the students to join in, thereby feeding them and entertaining them as well. "So a number of the kids came to our party," Ms. Henderson said.

The dining commons employees cooked up one big meal featuring swordfish and rack of lamb, and the students attended the semi-formal, with some faculty in tails.

"It was a very different party. But it was a nice party," Ms. Henderson said. Most of the students headed home Sunday.

Alan Frati takes a spill Sunday on the hill by Andover High School, after a blanket of snow that began early Saturday morning covered Andover and most of New England.

Milmoe wows President Bush, and others

D.C., on Sunday, Dec. 6, as part of a tribute to actor Paul Newman. Stephen was part of a group from the Hole-in-the-Wall Gang Camp, a free camp founded by the actor in Connecticut, for children with cancer. The group was invited to perform at the gala as a surprise to Mr. Newman and his wife, actress Joanne Woodward, who were honored for their work with that and other charitable causes. The show is to be aired on CBS television on Dec. 30.

The children, all cancer patients who have attended the Hole-in-the-Wall Camp, sang If There Were More People Like You, a song written especially for the camp by Broadway composer Cy Coleman.

"We got a standing ovation from the president," Stephen says.

Now an eighth-grader at West Middle School, Stephen was diagnosed with a malignant brain tumor in March of 1990 and underwent brain surgery, chemotherapy and radiation therapy, battling the disease. His cancer is now in remission and has been for more than two years.

"He's fine. His brain scans are normal," his mother said last week.

During that first summer his only break from medical routine was two weeks at the Hole-in-the-Wall Gang and others. He didn't know who the guy was standing next to him in the wings until he was introduced as Robert Redford.

After their performance, the Hole-in-the-Wall Gang kids went back to the hotel. While being bawled out by security for having the television volume on too loud, one of the counselors tried to order pizza, but in the excitement somehow sent the order to the Kennedy Center. The next day the Washington Post reported that a pizza delivery man was turned away from the Kennedy Center gala, and according to Stephen, the four pepperoni and four cheese pizzas finally made it to the hotel.

"Then we had a 50-yard dash contest in the hallway and security came and sent us to bed," he says.

The Hole-in-the-Wall Camp was started in 1988 by Mr. Newman so kids with cancer or blood disorders could have a chance to "raise a little hell," according to Stephen.

"Everybody loves each other. Everybody cares for each other. All your friends are so supportive," he says. "If you act weird and crazy, they're going to love you for it."

The camp offers boating, fishing, horseback riding, theater, arts and crafts, and sports that don't require a lot of movement since most guests are

'There's nothing that would please me more. I never want to leave that camp. The people at the Hole-in-the-Wall Camp, I mean, that's when I feel the best. If I could be one place for the rest of my life, it would be at the Hole-In-the-Wall Camp.'

Camp, a wild West setting customized for children with heavy medical equipment and wheelchairs, and where "sick is normal," according to Stephen.

Stephen has been very involved with fund raising for the camp ever since, returning each summer and performing on stage with the likes of Mr. Newman and singer Amy Grant in the camp's own annual gala.

"Last year my role in the gala was pretty big. I was the emcee," Stephen says.

Stephen traveled to Washington by bus Friday, Dec. 4, with other kids, most of whom he knew from performing at the camp, and returned on Monday. They were put up in a hotel, taken to movies, the Smithsonian Institute and other Washington landmarks before the Kennedy Center gala on Sunday night.

"I really liked going to the Lincoln monument (racing up and down the steps), and liked going onto the Mall (almost throwing friends into the reflecting pool)," Stephen says.

They rehearsed and taped the show ahead of time with Mr. Newman and the other stars, and Stephen saw several stars he knew, such as Tom Sellick, Sally Field, as well as Ginger Rogers physically restricted.

"Athletics are one of the lesser things at the camp," Stephen says.

Stephen started scuba diving at the camp's Olympic-size swimming pool and is now a certified sport scuba diver. This past summer he went up in a hot air balloon at the camp.

The sobering side of that story is that the wide open spot in the center of the camp used by the balloons was built for helicopters in case of medical emergencies. The camp has a fully equipped infirmary where chemotherapy and even surgery can be performed if necessary.

Stephen's diet is not limited because of his cancer, and in fact he says he's been a very healthy kid.

"It seemed like I saved up all my sickness for one thing," he said, munching a bag of Doritos.

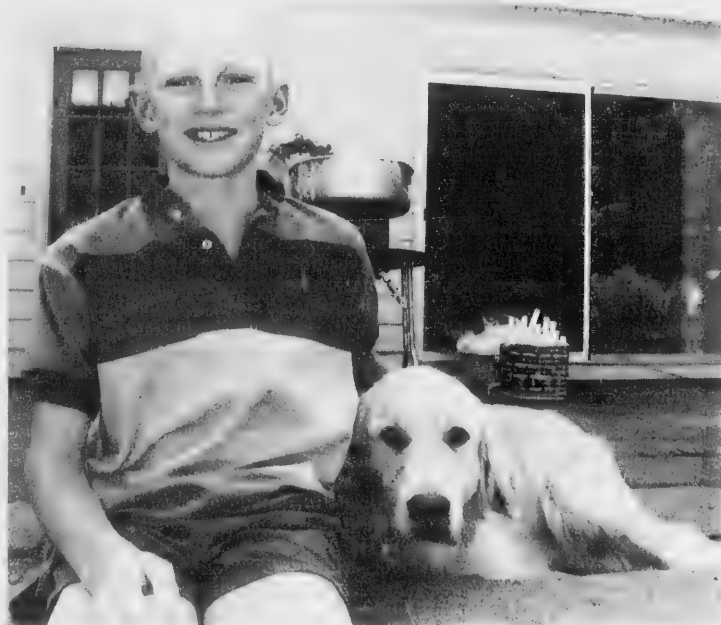

When he first went to camp, he was very sick, Stephen says. Most places in life, the person who is sick is different. But at the camp the person who is sick is normal.

"And that's great. Sick is normal," he says.

"I just love the place. It's my favorite place in the whole world," he says.

What about Disney World?

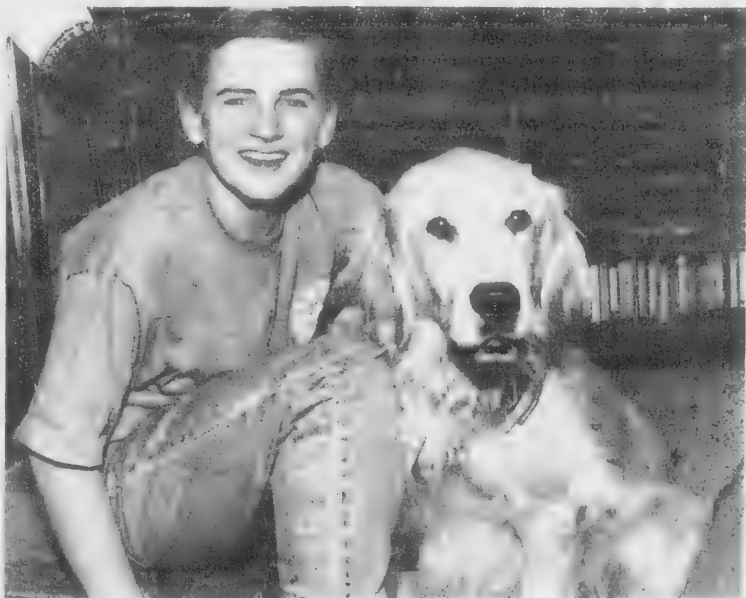

"What would be really good is to

The above photo was taken of Stephen Milmoe in September, 1990, when he was two weeks shy of his 12th birthday. He is shown with his Golden Retriever, Shasta. The photo was taken during a celebration due to the fact that he was cancer free six months after being diagnosed with brain cancer. In March of 1990, he had an eye check-up that eventually turned up a tumor. He had surgery four days later.

In the photo below, taken this week, Stephen, now 14 years old, poses again with Shasta. (And, of course, a full head of hair. The smile hasn't changed.)

have everybody from the Hole-in-the-Wall Camp go to Disney World," he says.

Stephen also goes on a weekend ski trip with kids from the camp every winter and plans to become a counselor-in-training at the camp when he's 16.

"There's nothing that would please me more. I never want to leave that camp," he says. "The people at the Hole-in-the-Wall Camp, I mean, that's when I feel the best. If I could be one place for the rest of my life, it would be at the Hole-In-the-Wall Camp."

Zenevitch at Macartney's

still serving today. In a lot of cases, it's the third generation that we've taken care of their clothing needs," Mr. Zenevitch said. "And a lot of these people have become close personal friends and this is probably one of the things that I'll miss the most."

The Andover store "was really a one-man shop" at first, Mr. Zenevitch said. In fact, the store took on collection of gas and electric company payments, and later the telephone company payments, to attract traffic to the store and to help pay the bills. It gave them the opportunity to hire a person for that job and have her work double duty in the store.

Elander & Swanton and the Andover Shop were the store's competition.

Mary M. Doherty, in a recent letter to the Townsmen, remembered shopping at Macartney's as a little girl and being treated like a special customer even if she was only making a $10 purchase. She also remembers Macartney's candy sticks.

"We were known for the jars of candy sticks that we gave to the young and the young-at-heart," Mr. Zenevitch said.

On the recent family night downtown, Macartney's employees baked pastries for their customers. Mr. Zenevitch, who calls baking one of his hobbies, baked about 400 chocolate chip cookies. It's something the employees have done every year, he said.

"It's all home baked, right from the heart," Mr. Zenevitch said.

Change never changes

Mr. Zenevitch has a 1957 news clipping reporting on a meeting of the Board of Trade, a group similar to today's Andover Center Association. Among the issues discussed at the meeting were Christmas lighting and off-street parking, two subjects still in the news today.

"If I counted the number of meetings and hours that I've spent on parking, it would probably amount to 10 years," Mr. Zenevitch said.

The municipal lot at Olde Andover Village has been there for years, but the Park Street lot is new and the small lot behind Old Town Hall has been expanded, he said.

"The library lot was a godsend because they used to take up valuable space on Essex Street and down Central Street," Mr. Zenevitch said of library patrons.

"Another thing we used to have a lot of fun at was the Andover Service Club," Mr. Zenevitch said, referring to a businessmen's club that played softball, had picnics and did charitable work.

Last year's holdup of the Bank of Boston on Central Street was the biggest robbery Mr. Zenevitch remembers in his 39 years on Main Street. The biggest fire was the one that burned Hill's Hardware, where the Andover Bank addition is located now.

Mr. Zenevitch remembers when

'Without Jean (Hughes), we never would have made it. She was my right arm, my left arm, without her they never would have succeeded. No job was beneath her dignity.'

John Zenevitch

Tom and Stella Koravos took over Ford's Coffee Shop from Harold Hessel-tine in 1954, when Verrette's Diner was where Enzo of Andover is now, and when Lee's Diner was next to Macartney's, where Andover Beauty Supply is now.

Mr. Zenevitch has seen all the changes on Main Street and they have been numerous. For example, the Beauty Supply location was home to Juvenile Furniture, Sutherland's, Andover Gift Shop and Mooselaneous after Lee's.

The Essex Street store opened in 1880 as the Lawrence One Price Store and Mr. Zenevitch has papers from 1918 advertising suits for $8 and $12.

"You could probably buy a good flannel suit for under $200" when the Main Street store opened. A sport coat cost $60-$75.

"In fact, when retail sport coats broke the $100 barrier, I thought it was the end of the world," Mr. Zenevitch said.

Now top-of-the-line sport coats sell for $350 and $450.

Macartney's customers

Mr. Zenevitch was hesitant to mention any particular customers who he remembered as special for fear of leaving someone out, but he did mention a couple of names.

"We've sold things to John Kennedy, not the president, the son, while he was at Phillips Academy," he said.

He also said nice things about Robert Urich, the actor who lived in Andover for several years while filming the "Spencer for Hire" television series in Boston, and who shopped at the store.

Jean Hughes: Star employee

Jean Hughes, of Sutherland Street, has been a key to the store's success, according to Mr. Zenevitch.

"Without Jean, we never would have made it," Mr. Zenevitch said. "She was my right arm, my left arm, without her they never would have succeeded. No job was beneath her dignity."

For 30 years, Ms. Hughes did everything in the store. She could sell suits but would also be out sweeping the sidewalk or shoveling snow before anybody else.

"We used to call her the flower lady" because she would be out watering not only the flower barrels in front of Macartney's but everybody else's flowers on the street that needed it, Mr.

John Zenevitch stops for a moment in front of Macartney's stock.

Zenevitch said.

Ms. Hughes doesn't like the fact that the store's closing.

"I don't like it at all," Ms. Hughes said this week. "But it was inevitable I guess."

The owners are retiring and closing the business.

Ms. Hughes quit her own catering business 30 years ago because she wanted to get away from the public. Then she took the job with Macartney's and got right back into it. Her daughter often asks her how anyone could stay at one job for so long.

"Why quit something that you enjoy doing?" Ms. Hughes said. "Somehow, 30 years seems like yesterday."

The store survived the fashion changes of the '60s and '70s without too many problems. "We went through them, all the leisure suits and the whole bit. Even John wore one of those and we survived that," Ms. Hughes said. "It's been wonderful."

Ms. Hughes has no plans for after the store closes. "I'm going to find something. I just can't not do anything. I've been working too long," she said.

Joe Pelczar, salesman, will probably go to work for Kaps men's clothing store, which is taking over the Macartney's location. Mr. Pelczar has been in the Andover store two years, was at Macartney's in Lawrence five years and worked for Kaps for seven years before that.

Dot Graham, of Arundel Street and Hampton, N.H., worked in the women's department until her recent retirement "at an early age." "We kid her about that," Mr. Zenevitch said.

Lillian Helfrich, of North Andover, ran the women's department until it closed last summer. "She's still with us working the men's department as we close," Mr. Zenevitch said.

Alex Milne, of Summer Street and who worked 27 years as a salesman until his retirement four years ago, said he misses the people. "It's probably the thing I miss more than anything," he said.

Peg Lambert was the first person hired by Mr. Zenevitch, opened the women's department at the store and is one of the people Mr. Milne misses.

"She put her heart and soul into the store," Mr. Milne said. "She's a great worker, a great lady."

Ms. Lambert, of North Andover, began working at the store in 1951 and retired only a few years back. "We never found out her age. She's got to be in her 80s," Mr. Zenevitch said. "She's still spry. She bounces around like a 22-year-old."

Karen Fitzgibbons, of North Andover, the office manager, has been with the company for 30-35 years. Al Legendre, of Chestnut Street, worked at Elander & Swanton for many years and went to work for Macartney's part time where they called him the "Beau Brummell or the Dapper Dan of Andover."

"Even in his casual clothes he's got colors he combines that look so well together," Mr. Zenevitch said.

Ellen McNiece, of Arthur Road, is currently working part time at the store, "doing a full-time job."

Two excellent tailors and a seamstress rounded out the team and were "the backbone of our clothes business," Mr. Zenevitch said.

John Leinsidzer, who retired two years ago, was a tailor and his brother-in-law, Zoltan Palkovitz, took over and is still with the store. Zelia Viera was the seamstress. "She had to be by far the best seamstress around," Mr. Zenevitch said.

People still come into the store looking for her card, he said.

Mr. Zenevitch, 61, of Methuen, was the oldest of seven children whose father died when John was just 15. He worked in retail sales in high school and returned to it after two years in the Navy and a short stint at Mergenthaler Linotype school in New York City. He started at Macartney's in 1953 and has been there ever since.

"The business has succeeded for 112 years, 39 in Andover, with three generations of caring owners and dedicated and loyal employees," he said.

He may take another job, if one comes along that interests him, but he has no definite plans to do so now. Mr. Zenevitch said he will miss the closeness of the customers the most after the store closes in January. "The closeness of the customers and the fellow employees," Mr. Zenevitch said.

Milmoie wows President Bush, and others

D.C., on Sunday, Dec. 6, as part of a tribute to actor Paul Newman. Stephen was part of a group from the Hole-in-the-Wall Gang Camp, a free camp founded by the actor in Connecticut, for children with cancer. The group was invited to perform at the gala as a surprise to Mr. Newman and his wife, actress Joanne Woodward, who were honored for their work with that and other charitable causes. The show is to be aired on CBS television on Dec. 30.

The children, all cancer patients who have attended the Hole-in-the-Wall Camp, sang If There Were More People Like You, a song written especially for the camp by Broadway composer Cy Coleman.

"We got a standing ovation from the president," Stephen says.

Now an eighth-grader at West Middle School, Stephen was diagnosed with a malignant brain tumor in March of 1990 and underwent brain surgery, chemotherapy and radiation therapy, battling the disease. His cancer is now in remission and has been for more than two years.

"He's fine. His brain scans are normal," his mother said last week.

During that first summer his only break from medical routine was two weeks at the Hole-in-the-Wall Gang and others. He didn't know who the guy was standing next to him in the wings until he was introduced as Robert Redford.

After their performance, the Hole-in-the-Wall Gang kids went back to the hotel. While being bawled out by security for having the television volume on too loud, one of the counselors tried to order pizza, but in the excitement somehow sent the order to the Kennedy Center. The next day the Washington Post reported that a pizza delivery man was turned away from the Kennedy Center gala, and according to Stephen, the four pepperoni and four cheese pizzas finally made it to the hotel.

"Then we had a 50-yard dash contest in the hallway and security came and sent us to bed," he says.

The Hole-in-the-Wall Camp was started in 1988 by Mr. Newman so kids with cancer or blood disorders could have a chance to "raise a little hell," according to Stephen.

"Everybody loves each other. Everybody cares for each other. All your friends are so supportive," he says. "If you act weird and crazy, they're going to love you for it."

The camp offers boating, fishing, horseback riding, theater, arts and crafts, and sports that don't require a lot of movement since most guests are

'There's nothing that would please me more. I never want to leave that camp. The people at the Hole-in-the-Wall Camp, I mean, that's when I feel the best. If I could be one place for the rest of my life, it would be at the Hole-In-the-Wall Camp.'

Camp, a wild West setting customized for children with heavy medical equipment and wheelchairs, and where "sick in normal," according to Stephen.

Stephen has been very involved with fund raising for the camp ever since, returning each summer and performing on stage with the likes of Mr. Newman and singer Amy Grant in the camp's own annual gala.

"Last year my role in the gala was pretty big. I was the emcee," Stephen says.

Stephen traveled to Washington by bus Friday, Dec. 4, with other kids, most of whom he knew from performing at the camp, and returned on Monday. They were put up in a hotel, taken to movies, the Smithsonian Institute and other Washington landmarks before the Kennedy Center gala on Sunday night.

"I really liked going to the Lincoln monument (racing up and down the steps), and liked going onto the Mall (almost throwing friends into the reflecting pool)," Stephen says.

They rehearsed and taped the show ahead of time with Mr. Newman and the other stars, and Stephen saw several stars he knew, such as Tom Sellick, Sally Field, as well as Ginger Rogers physically restricted.

"Athletics are one of the lesser things at the camp," Stephen says.

Stephen started scuba diving at the camp's Olympic-size swimming pool and is now a certified sport scuba diver. This past summer he went up in a hot air balloon at the camp.

The sobering side of that story is that the wide open spot in the center of the camp used by the balloons was built for helicopters in case of medical emergencies. The camp has a fully equipped infirmary where chemotherapy and even surgery can be performed if necessary.

Stephen's diet is not limited because of his cancer, and in fact he says he's been a very healthy kid.

"It seemed like I saved up all my sickness for one thing," he said, munching a bag of Doritos.

When he first went to camp, he was very sick, Stephen says. Most places in life, the person who is sick is different. But at the camp the person who is sick is normal.

"And that's great. Sick is normal," he says.

"I just love the place. It's my favorite place in the whole world," he says.

What about Disney World?

"What would be really good is to

The above photo was taken of Stephen Milmoie in September, 1990, when he was two weeks shy of his 12th birthday. He is shown with his Golden Retriever, Shasta. The photo was taken during a celebration due to the fact that he was cancer free six months after being diagnosed with brain cancer. In March of 1990, he had an eye check-up that eventually turned up a tumor. He had surgery four days later.

still serving today. In a lot of cases, it's the third generation that we've taken care of their clothing needs," Mr. Zenevitch said. "And a lot of these people have become close personal friends and this is probably one of the things that I'll miss the most."

The Andover store "was really a one-man shop" at first, Mr. Zenevitch said. In fact, the store took on collection of gas and electric company payments, and later the telephone company payments, to attract traffic to the store and to help pay the bills. It gave them the opportunity to hire a person for that job and have her work double duty in the store.

Elander & Swanton and the Andover Shop were the store's competition.

Mary M. Doherty, in a recent letter to the Townsmen, remembered shopping at Macartney's as a little girl and being treated like a special customer even if she was only making a $10 purchase. She also remembers Macartney's candy sticks.

"We were known for the jars of candy sticks that we gave to the young and the young-at-heart," Mr. Zenevitch said.

On the recent family night downtown, Macartney's employees baked pastries for their customers. Mr. Zenevitch, who calls baking one of his hobbies, baked about 400 chocolate chip cookies. It's something the employees have done every year, he said.

"It's all home baked, right from the heart," Mr. Zenevitch said.

Change never changes

Mr. Zenevitch has a 1957 news clipping reporting on a meeting of the Board of Trade, a group similar to today's Andover Center Association. Among the issues discussed at the meeting were Christmas lighting and off-street parking, two subjects still in the news today.

"If I counted the number of meetings and hours that I've spent on parking, it would probably amount to 10 years," Mr. Zenevitch said.

The municipal lot at Olde Andover Village has been there for years, but the Park Street lot is new and the small lot behind Old Town Hall has been expanded, he said.

"The library lot was a godsend because they used to take up valuable space on Essex Street and down Central Street," Mr. Zenevitch said of library patrons.

"Another thing we used to have a lot of fun at was the Andover Service Club," Mr. Zenevitch said, referring to a businessmen's club that played softball, had picnics and did charitable work.

Last year's holdup of the Bank of Boston on Central Street was the biggest robbery Mr. Zenevitch remembers in his 39 years on Main Street. The biggest fire was the one that burned Hill's Hardware, where the Andover Bank addition is located now.

Mr. Zenevitch remembers when

'Without Jean (Hughes), we never would have made it. She was my right arm, my left arm, without her they never would have succeeded. No job was beneath her dignity.'

Miles of work to do

We heard another ugly story about bigotry this past weekend, this time from a man who says he was so surprised to hear such prejudice still exists in Andover.

While we have no solution to this age-old problem, we do have two ideas of what we should do about it now. One is to talk about it every time it crops up. If we act as though prejudice doesn't exist here, if we turn away when we hear a black person has again been called a derogatory term, then we are accepting intolerance. In addition, if we talk about such incidences, and say each time that we are angry that they occur, we are sending a message to the aggrieved: We value you and this repulsive type of behavior is not acceptable to us.

The other idea of what to do with such intolerance is already being done at Andover High School. Under the sensitive and productive leadership of Principal Tim Thomas, the school for the second year has hired Project Teamwork — a group of athletes of all races who are celebrities to teen-agers. The celebrities come into the school to reach out to the students and heighten their awareness to the damage that discrimination and prejudice causes.

Project Teamwork includes Lin Dawson, a former New England Patriots football player; Holly Metcalf, a gold-medal Olympic rower; and Bob Macabe, a former professional basketball player.

Of course when children and young adults express prejudice, it most certainly must be an expression of what they learned at home, so it is adults, too, whom we need to reach. However, it is more difficult to undo years and years of ingrown, practiced bigotry. Somehow, it seems more practical to work on changing the attitudes of the younger generation, and using some of their heroes to deliver the message is a creative and effective way to begin.

We don't wish to repeat in this space the latest incidence. Suffice it to say that we in this community have work to do.

In the still of the night

The moon begins to disappear over the bell tower at Phillips Academy last Wednesday, Dec. 8, as the Earth's shadow creeps over it. A full lunar eclipse occurred at 6:07 p.m. on that day, as the moon vanished for longer than an hour and photographers grabbed their tripods and looked for the best view of the shot.

A special way to communicate

By Perry Colmore Catlin

I've been writing quite a lot lately, not just what I write here in the newspaper, but also personal letters, and in my journal. Writing letters is an art that feels close to lost, certainly for my children's generation, and also for many in my generation.

My mother used to write letters home to her father in North Carolina, when we were living in the Philippines. The letters were long, typed and often four or five pages on Corrasable Bond. She was writing about living out of country and she was writing about missing her father and her friends.

When I left the Philippines to attend school in New York, she would write my brother and sister and me the same letter, only my name would be written in ink at the top of mine. Reading her letters was a visit with her and my father.

My brother, who lives in California, and who prefers writing letters on his Macintosh computer to using the telephone, writes regularly with me. He wrote a joint letter to me and my sister recently. My sister didn't like sharing the letter. I didn't really mind; I just wanted to be in touch.

I've been reading May Sarton's works recently, Journal of a Solitude being the one I've liked best. A poet, Ms. Sarton is perhaps best known for her journals because she is so frank about subjects people can relate to but about which they may not feel safe discussing: illness, loss, solitude and more.

Anyway, Ms. Sarton's Journal of a Solitude inspired me to start keeping a journal again. I've done that on and off for a lot of years, but often feel I don't have time to write. A few years ago a woman I know suggested I keep a journal.

"I know I should, but I never seem to make time to do that," was my answer.

"I know what you're doing wrong," said the wise woman. "You're feeling like you have to fill several pages, and that you have to write every day. Just write a line or two at a time, more if you wish, but just a short entry so that you can look back and see where you were at that time."

That helped me, and so does writing. And by now, entries for 1992 tell a lot about me over a year's time.

Sometimes I like to sit down and read my journal, lots of pages at a time.

I also am writing more letters, to family and to friends, and I am enjoying that, too. It's best when you find someone who shares a love of writing and will really communicate with you by letter. That is happening, and I feel a whole extra avenue of communicating is open to me. Sometimes writing some thoughts in a letter is easier than saying it face to face. It's sort of like talking in a car. You are shut up in there and can't walk away, but you don't have to look at one another while you may be tackling a difficult subject. In a letter you are right there, pen and paper, no distraction of face to face, no waiting to feel what he or she will feel when you say something. You are completely within your own thoughts.

In addition, writing begets writing. Our children should be writing to pen pals, or their grandparents, or whatever it would take to have them become more comfortable with the written word.

For me, writing is important. It's a little like spending time with a special friend. The permanence of what a writer produces is a measure of the importance of the act. Thanks to those who write with me.

Our schools are excellent

Editor, Townsmen:

At a time when much of the news about Andover schools deals with crisis and contention, it is well to remember one fact that everyone can agree on: We have an excellent public school system.

This fact was brought home most recently by results of the Massachusetts Educational Assessment Program, a statewide test to determine how well students have mastered the curriculum.

Forty-seven percent of Andover High School seniors scored on the two highest levels of the five-level test. These students have gone beyond mere mastery of the basics and demonstrate that they understood the underlying principles of their studies and can apply these principles in other areas. Also, Andover seniors scored 190 points higher than the state average in reading, 170 points higher in math, 180 points higher in sciences and 170 points higher in social science.

A higher percentage of Andover students scored on the top test levels than did high school students from such educationally conscious towns as Wellesley, Winchester, Concord-Carlisle, Acton-Boxborough and Wilmington. In fact, only nine school systems statewide scored higher than Andover in these categories.

Proficiency at this level, according to Andover Assistant Superintendent Eileen Woods, indicates the strength of our curriculum. But a curriculum – and a school system – must serve all students and it should be noted that while Andover exceeded the above-mentioned towns in high-scorers, it also had a lower percentage of students who scored poorly.

There's more good news:

- SAT scores are up in both verbal and math;
- 73 percent of last year's seniors who applied to college were accepted by their first-choice schools;
- 95 percent of seniors went on to institutions of higher education, 80 percent to four-year colleges and 15 percent to two-year colleges;
- Preliminary indications are highly positive from the accreditation team from the New England Council of Schools and Colleges, which looked at Andover High School.

Andover residents have come to expect excellence in the public schools. It is why many moved here in the first place and why Andover continues to draw enthusiastic home buyers. But, of course, excellence doesn't just happen; it is created by the hard work of those who care about our children and our future. And in Andover it is created for less money than in any comparable community.

In 1990-'91 (the latest year for which figures are available), Andover spent $80 less per pupil than Wilmington, $245 less than Acton-Boxborough, $413 less than Winchester, $1,196 less than Wellesley and $2,835 less than Concord-Carlisle. And this is just to name the school systems already used for comparative purposes – all school systems which scored below Andover in statewide assessment testing.

Obviously, Andover is doing more with less. For example, the high first-choice college placement percentage for our seniors clearly indicates a superior guidance system. Yet the counselor-student ratio at the high school is approximately 1:260, the highest it has been in recent memory.

Doing more with less also means doing more at a time when more and more is being demanded of the schools, a time of new challenges – changing demographics, mainstreaming, the redefinition of the family, etc. And it is a time when we must prepare our students for the challenges of a global economy, an exciting prospect to be sure, but one which no longer offers them the secure, local industrial base enjoyed by previous generations.

These are challenges we must meet.

At this holiday season, when it is customary to look back and count one's blessings, we in Andover who are concerned with education have much to be thankful for. If we continue to work together, if we continue to strive for the community support our students need and deserve, I am confident we will be able to look forward as well with hope and optimism.

Be nice to your newspaper delivery person

Editor, Townsmen:

Today I had the unique experience of going back in time. I was awakened by my son and daughter at 6:30 this morning and told the first major snow storm of the year had arrived. The problem being, the little Chevette my 17-year-old daughter drives each morning while my 12-year-old son delivers papers with her, could not make it safely through the storm.

Knowing how hard these two children work each morning to deliver papers before school on holidays and during rain storms, I was glad to pitch in and use my four-wheel drive Jeep. After preparing the paper in individual bags and taking precautions that they would arrive dry and safely, we shoveled out, cleaned the windows clear and were off.

The conversation in the car intrigued me. My son said, "Maybe we'll get a tip today." My daughter answered, "Why, remember the storm on Thanksgiving morning and no one tipped us then."

They proceeded to tell me how day after day they deliver papers without receiving tips or even a thank you from the folks waiting at their doors at 6:45 a.m. These two children are from a family of seven and decided to do this route as a way to earn money for the "extras" at school and home which otherwise would be impossible.

As we pulled into a driveway in the storm, a man at his mailbox looked at us as if to say "about time." My daughter cheerfully jumped out of the car and yelled "hello." Getting back in she said, "It wouldn't be so bad if they'd even smile or say hi."

Yes, today I went back in time, but it was oh so different. I remember smiles, I remember thank you's and cookies and I sure remember tips.

In a community as affluent as Andover, why have we forgotten our childhood and the basics?

Santa parade is page-1 story

Editor, Townsmen:

When I found no mention of Santa's parade in the Townsmen dated Nov. 25, I first assumed that the parade would be next week in the month of December. Then I decided to search it more carefully and found an ad by La Patisserie on page 9, which announces the parade to be held Nov. 29. In searching for further information, I looked under News Calendar p. 60. No dice; it was the anniversary of a historic event in 1916. Finally I looked under Entertainment p. 44 and voila! Santa's parade on two square inches of news space.

This enabled me to plan an alternate route before I got behind the wheel. Shouldn't Santa's parade be announced on the front page? Maybe Santa should keep a diary. If Santa were real, this could mean that Andover gets no toys for Christmas. I believe that front page coverage announcing an upcoming parade is a "must," not only for those who want to watch the parade but also for our motorists. It is bad enough for out-of-town motorists to be confronted with a detour sign. I offer this as a suggestion. It is not intended as a complaint.

A cooperative clean-up

Editor, Townsmen:

Concerning your recent coverage of the combined citizen/town efforts to clean up a long-standing eyesore off

Jenkins Road, here's a status report: Thanks are due to all involved, including students from Phillips Academy's Search and Rescue Program and a team from the Andover High School Outing Club, (Adam Greene, Megan Selviteili, Nick Zammuto, and instructor Paul Ragno) who cleaned up the last vestiges of debris plus one impressive oil tank last Sunday.

Special thanks are due to Bob McQuade and his Public Works Department who responded with such lightning speed that the massive pile of junk pictured in last week's Townsmen disappeared 24 hours later. Finally, we are all benefiting from a town manager that finds time amidst a busy schedule of important and sometimes contradictory demands to support those with special interests in conservation and outdoor recreation.

Alan French, Chair
Bay Circuit Alliance

P.S. A small correction to last week's article: Andover's hardworking and effective representative to the Bay Circuit Alliance is Liz Tentarelli, chairwoman, Andover Trail Committee. The Alliance, while based in Andover, is concerned with assisting over 50 towns surrounding Boston to create the 170-mile Bay Circuit Recreational Trail.

Meehan appointed to Armed Services and Business committees

Fifth District Congressman-elect Martin T. Meehan has been appointed to the Armed Services and Small Business committees.

He said these key committee assignments will "work hand-in-hand" to help ensure that Massachusetts receives its fair share of federal defense dollars and small business grants, crucial ingredients to the economic vitality of the region.

"These committee assignments will be an asset to Massachusetts and the Fifth District in particular. They will enable me to work on the types of programs that I have been talking about for months, economic conversion and small business development. These are the kinds of programs that will help put people back to work," Mr. Meehan said.

He noted that his position on the Armed Services Committee, which is responsible for authorizing defense programs, will help ensure that Massachusetts' companies that depend on military contracts for their livelihood receive their fair share of the shrinking defense dollar. Mr. Meehan will be able to have a vote in the future of military facilities, including those that have the most impact

Looking at AHS space needs

By Lisa Boudreau

Andover High School administrators will meet with program heads later this week to discuss future curriculum and space needs.

Principal Tim Thomas and Superintendent Mark McQuillan hope to discuss educators' expectations for high school expansion plans. School officials expect the high school population to grow from 1,238 students to 1,700 by the year 2002.

Information gathered at this week's meeting will be used by the consultant hired by the school system. The consultant's charge is to develop specifications to be used by architects to meet state building and education requirements.

On the agenda will be science lab, library, guidance office, cafeteria, central office, athletic field, locker room and storage space.

Dr. McQuillan told the School Committee Tuesday that he believes one of the areas that will generate the most community interest and discussion is a field house for athletics. The high school does not have a pool, a hockey rink or an indoor facility for track and field. The school has to rent space in local arenas for AHS teams to practice and play.

Another area in which the administrators hope to gauge interest is the future of the industrial arts program and several large rooms formerly used for those classes at AHS.

"We'd like to find out what the expectations are for industrial arts at Andover high. Should the program be (brought back and) redefined, or eliminated at it is now," said Dr. McQuillan.

After winter school vacation, Dr. McQuillan plans to meet with students, parents and others about the high school's future space and program needs. The consultant's findings should be ready for School Committee review by mid-January.

The School Committee hopes to bring a request before April Town Meeting for money for architectural drawings to enlarge the high school and meet specifications outlined by the group.

Collins Center
School Committee member Chris Out-

win told the board Tuesday night that he wants the people looking at the high school space needs to consider the rooms behind the Collins Center stage. According to Dr. Outwin, the scenery storage area, the dressing rooms and other under-utilized space in the Collins Center could be turned into central office space right away, with little, if any, renovations.

The current guidance offices are too small, provide little privacy for staff to work with students, he said. If additional space is needed there is also space above the stage that could be renovated and made into classrooms, he said.

The space above the stage where lines and pulleys hold and move backdrops is much larger than needed, said Dr. Outwin. He believes that space could be reduced, and a portion of it made into classes if necessary. The rear of the auditorium has retractable partitions that he said are not used enough to make large lecture-type classrooms.

In other news about the Collins

Center, the committee will have until the first week or two of the New Year to accept an offer to bring in four professional shows to the theater this spring.

The committee learned Tuesday night that Flanagin Associates, a New Hampshire firm, has offered to schedule four "big-name" shows for an up-front fee of $10,000, which it says will be repaid from show proceeds. The Collins Center has been closed to almost all non-school events since the non-profit organization and a series of its managers went bankrupt in the spring of 1990. A few dance schools have rented the stage for $1,750 per show in the past.

Dr. Outwin said

the merit of the offer is that it gets shows back into the facility, it begins to rebuild the credibility of the Collins Center in the "entertainment world's eyes," the town would get its $10,000 back and additional money could be made from concession sales at the four shows.

The Flanagin Associate's plan has drawbacks, he said, because it wouldn't alleviate any management responsibility ities now handled by an over-burdened high school administration staff. The School Committee will meet Tuesday, Jan. 5, 1993 to act on the Flanagin Associates' proposal and other agenda items.

Town Planner Smith resigns

Harry Smith, town planner for five years, leaves his job with the town tomorrow to become director of community development in Essex, Vt.

Selectmen took the opportunity Monday night to thank him for his service to the town and wished him well in his new endeavor.

Mr. Smith played a key role on several big projects in Andover, including creation of the town's master plan, redesign of Elm Square and the Brickstone property in Shawshen, the redistricting map, and he has been the point man for the Central Business District Committee and has been the town's parking expert extraordinaire.

Police receive $10,000 grant

By Don Staruk

The town will receive a $10,000 grant next year to aid in traffic safety and enforcement, Chief James Johnson said this week.

The grant, from the Governor's Highway Safety Bureau, will be used to provide over-time patrols in the area of drinking and driving, speeding, passenger protection and pedestrian safety.

The grant, written by Sgt. Brian Pattullo and Lt. Phillip Froborg, was awarded for successfully pointing out specific traffic safety problems. Andover is one of 15 communities, including Methuen, to receive the grants.

Part of the purpose of the grant is to educate the public as well as catch violators. Anyone age 12 and under must wear a seat belt in Massachusetts, Chief Johnson said.

Selectman Silverman to cook in public

Selectman Gerald Silverman, of 56 Dufton Road, will be cooking latkes, potato pancakes, at Ford's coffee shop at 14 Main St. this Saturday morning.

It is a Jewish custom to eat latkes during the Hanukkah season.

Mr. Silverman will cook for a couple of hours in the morning, said Tom Koravos, owner of the popular downtown restaurant.

Lodge to hold family breakfast Sunday, Dec. 20

A family breakfast will be held at St. Matthew's Lodge on Sunday, Dec. 20, from 8 a.m. until 11.

The breakfast is open to the public.

The lodge will make tickets available at the door. Tickets cost $3.50, but they are $3 for senior citizens.

St. Matthew's Lodge is located at 7 High St.

Alex Tommasino stable

13-year-old hit 2 weeks ago by car while riding bike

By Don Staruk

Alex Tommasino, the 13-year-old boy struck by a car while riding his bicycle on School Street two weeks ago, was transferred from Brigham and Women's Hospital to University Hospital in Boston this week where he is listed in stable condition, according to his father, William Tommasino.

Alex, a Doherty Middle School student, was struck by a car driven by a 16-year-old Haggett's Pond Road resident at about 6 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 2, as he came out of Locke Street onto School Street on his bicycle. He suffered fractured cervical and spinal cord vertebrae, a broken right shin bone and broken left ankle and had no feeling in his hands or his legs.

The driver of the car was not charged in the accident.

Alex subsequently suffered a collapsed lung and has had surgery at least once.

Mr. Tommasino said Wednesday it has been a very tough couple of weeks on him and his wife, Linda, and the family, but that the community has been "dramatically supportive."

"We really have a lot of gratitude to the Andover community. They've really been touched by Alex. We do want to thank the community for all the tremendous support they've given us," Mr. Tommasino said. "Alex is just such a special kid. I think everybody that knows him, they like him so much."

Neighbors have been very helpful, arranging rides into Boston and making meals for the family. Alex has a younger sister, Jackie, 12, and brother, Scott, 9.

"We're keeping a candle in our window until he comes home," Mr. Tommasino said.

Christ Church blood drive set for Dec. 22

An Andover community blood drive will be held Tuesday, Dec. 22, from 2 to 7 p.m. at Christ Church, 125 Central St.

If you are in good health, 18 years of age or older (17 years old with a signed American Red Cross parental/guardian consent form), weigh at least 105 pounds, have no history of hepatitis and no history of exposure to the AIDS virus, you may be eligible to donate blood.

For more information or an appointment to donate, call Nick Angelos at 475-0436.

Heestand and Lynch in service

Air Force Cadet Douglas C. Heestand has received a four-year Air Force ROTC scholarship and will attend school at Kelly Air Force Base, Texas.

The cadet was selected on the basis of comprehensive tests, high school scholastic achievement and extracurricular activities. He will be commissioned a second lieutenant upon graduation and completion of the ROTC program.

Cadet Heestand is the son of Ronald J. Heestand of Bedford, N.H., and Carolyn A. Kirwin of 23 Michael Way.

He graduated from Manchester

High School West in 1992.

Cpl. Christopher J. Lynch has completed the jungle operations course at the Jungle Operations Training Center at Kelly Air Force Base, Texas.

Cpl. Lynch, a heavy anti-armor weapons infantryman, is the son of Joseph and Constance Lynch of 2 Laconia Drive.

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

BUILDING CONFIDENCE

Looking back over the past three decades, a dramatic increase can be seen in the number of people seeking the services of chiropractors. Back in the mid-1960's, government figures show that 4 1/2 million people visited doctors of chiropractic. By 1980, that number was estimated to have doubled, while during the mid-1980's, it reached 11 million. At the start of the 1990's, more than 15 million Americans had availed themselves of the expertise of some 50,000 doctors of chiropractic across the nation. To be sure, the increase of chiropractic patients is linked, in part, to an increase in population over nearly three decades. More importantly, Americans have increasingly come to understand that chiropractic offers them help for neck, back and other neuromusculoskeletal problems.

Chiropractic is also natural, safe, uses no drugs or surgery and is recommended for infants through seniors. If you have health problems, we hope you will call us at DELORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, 475-5042, for an appointment. Chiropractic not only restores health, it builds health. Our office is located at 15 Central Street.

P.S. Chiropractic is recognized as alternative health care by virtually all insurance carriers.

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

GIVING PATIENTS THE BRUSH

Many dentists would like to have their patients take egg-timers into their bathrooms as part of their early morning tooth-brushing routines. Why? Dental researchers say that, in order to effectively remove plaque from the teeth, it takes three to five minutes of conscientious brushing. When volunteers in a tooth brushing study were asked to estimate how long they brushed their teeth, most said they spent two to three minutes at the task. An actual timing of these same volunteers, however, showed that they only spent about one minute with brushes in hand. This minimal effort can result in bacteria-laden plaque remaining on the teeth, which causes tooth decay and gum disease. Devoting three minutes to toothbrushing, twice daily, might lead to a reduction in the 75 percent of Americans over age 30 who have gum disease.

We believe that most people want to keep their teeth for a lifetime. Keeping an attractive smile and clean, fresh breath is certainly more enjoyable and less costly than the problems that are caused by neglect. We also believe that good dental health depends on good habits, proper nutrition and regular professional checkups. If your goals are the same as ours, call us at 296 Lowell Street, Rt 133, with easy access of Rt 93, where office hours are Mon & Thur 10-8, Tues & Fri 8-6 and by appointment. Telephone 475-2431.

P.S. The use of an electric toothbrush may help improve the oral hygiene of children with limited dexterity and adults with arthritic hands.

SENIOR CITIZENS

Mary Byrne-Potvin resigns

By Terry Melillo,
Acting Director
Andover Council on Aging

Sadly we announce the resignation of Mary Byrne-Potvin as director of the Council on Aging. During her three years as director, she managed to turn the atmosphere at the Senior Center into one of warmth and friendliness. Her door was always open to anyone who needed her help. Join us in wishing Mary much happiness in her new life. We'll miss you, Mary.

Miracle Ear will not be here for testing in December. The next available date will be Thursday, Jan. 28. Call 470-3830 for an appointment.

Health clinics here are free

Visiting Nurse Association (VNA) HomeCare of 1 Union St. offers free health clinics for the elderly throughout the Merrimack Valley. The clinics are conducted by VNA registered nurses and sponsored in part through town funds and through funding from the Older Americans Act as granted by Elder Services of the Merrimack Valley.

The clinics focus on preventive care and assist elders in maintaining good health through blood pressure checks, weight management and nutrition and medication counseling. The clinics are free, open to the pub-

All you have to do is call the Senior Center at 470-3830 the day before you plan to come for lunch. Lunch reservations must be in by 2 p.m.

No lunches will be served at the Senior Center Dec. 24 to Jan. 3 due to the Christmas break. Lunches will resume Monday, Jan. 4.

The Senior Center will close at noon on Christmas Eve.

The staff and I want to take this opportunity to wish each and every one of you the very happiest of holidays.

lic and handicapped accessible.

Clinics in Andover are staffed jointly by VNA HomeCare and the Andover Health Department. Clinics will be held Monday, Dec. 21, at Andover Commons and Monday, Dec. 28, at Frye Circle from 1 to 3 p.m. both days.

Call the health department at 470-3800, Ext. 255, or VNA HomeCare at 470-1615, Ext. 62, for further information.

Seniors: Send baby photos of your grandchildren to the Townsman to be included in the Jan. 14 special section: BABY. Include name, address, parents, grandparents and more.

GSP Joins Lazarus House To Fight Homelessness.

Because we think the battle against homelessness is a far more important struggle than the price wars in the PC market, GSP will share with LAZARUS HOUSE a portion of every sale we make from now through the end of March 1993. (No product restrictions, no minimums, no strings!)

By letting GSP help you with your computer, peripheral and supply needs, you will be helping to ease the suffering of the homeless in the greater Lawrence area. Call us today to learn how you can participate in this sharing program. We look forward to serving you.

HOLIDAY HELP

The following is a list of organizations collecting donations for charities during the holiday season:

Greater Lawrence Technical School's National Honor Society students are collecting toys for the Toys for Tots program and canned goods for a charity drive. Donations may be dropped off at the school Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Global Systems & Peripherals Inc. of 166 North Main St. and Boston is raising funds to donate to local shelters for the homeless. Dennis F. Crossen of Andover, president of GSP, said, "We need to stop talking. Addressing problems (is) good for conversation. Acting on them creates a remedy. It is our moral duty to assist whenever possible, not just when it's convenient." Mr. Crossen and Robert Munroe, VP/CFO of GSP, say they realize that people will look at this as nothing more than a good marketing effort. "We never claim to be that smart; we just give a damn," they say. Call 475-8830 for further information.

Andover Marriott will provide free rooms for out-of-town families of patients at Hale Hospital and Northeast Rehabilitation Center. If families wish to participate in the program they should contact the hospital where their family member is staying and a hospital representative will make the arrangements.

Waldenbooks will donate 20 percent of its sales on Saturday, Dec. 19, from 9 to 10 a.m. to the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. Local stores are located at 33 Main St. and at the Methuen Mall.

The Eagle-Tribune Santa Fund is collecting monetary contributions for its annual Santa fund. Contributions can be dropped off at the Eagle-Tribune, 100 Turnpike St., North Andover. Contributions are distributed through the Eagle-Tribune by Merrimack Valley Catholic Charities, the Salvation Army and the Family Service Association.

The Unitarian Universalist Church, Locke Street, is sponsoring an ongoing collection for North Parish Church's "People's Pantry" every Sunday morning; 475-4454.

Silverado Athletic Club is collecting used but wearable sneakers for the needy until Christmas. Sneakers may be dropped off at the club, Park Street Village, 63 Park St. Call 474-1888.

Andover High School is sponsoring its own Santa Fund collection. Donations may be dropped off at the high school on Shaw-

{ The Good Thing About Twins Is, You Get Two Of Everything. }
{ The Bad Thing Is, That Includes Colds. }

Twin four-year-olds, Kyle and Lyndsay Monahan, share their clothes, their friends, and their fun. Unfortunately, they also share their colds, their strep throats and their flus. Which is why their parents take them to Wilmington Pediatrics, Inc., at the Winchester Hospital Family Medical Center. All of our doctors are members of the Winchester Hospital staff, so the Monahans know their children are getting the finest care. They also feel good knowing that we've added new physicians and have a newly renovated facility. And that specialists from the Floating Hospital for Children at New England Medical Center are available at the Family Medical Center. Which is important. Because with twins, even something as simple as taking care of a cold is twice as hard.

Decorative arts series to focus on four approaches to the arts

By Virginia Lopez Begg
Andover Historical Society

As the 20th century draws to a close, it is time to look back and see where we have been in the arts as in everything else. That is the goal of this year's decorative arts series, an annual event jointly sponsored by the Andover and North Andover historical societies and the Stevens-Coolidge Place.

This year's lectures will focus on aspects of four early 20th-century approaches to the arts: Colonial Revival, Edwardian, Art Nouveau and Art Deco. The programs will take place on Wednesdays in January and February from 7 to 9 p.m. and will alternate between the Old Center Hall at 3 Great Pond Road in North Andover and the Andover Historical Society's Amos Blanchard House on Main Street. There is a $10 fee for each lecture, with a discount on the entire series. Information and registration are available at the Andover Historical Society, 475-2236.

Margaret Henderson Floyd, professor of art history at Tufts University, will discuss Colonial Revival architecture on Wednesday, Jan. 20. There are so many examples of this style in our area. A new interest in America's past was born at the Philadelphia Centennial Exposition in 1876. Americans began to collect their own antiques, found ancestor societies and design houses and gardens as they interpreted those of pre-Revolutionary times. Dr. Floyd has an extensive list of publications and teaching credits in her field. The lecture will be held in North Andover.

On Wednesday, Jan. 27, Gloria Lieberman will present a program on early 20th-century jewelry, Edwardian, Art Nouveau and Art Deco, at the Andover Historical Society. Ms. Lieberman, is with the jewelry department at Skinner's Auction Galleries. She will talk about the sparkling creations of this era, beginning with England's Queen Victoria's son, whose brief reign glittered before the dark days of World War I snuffed it out and changed Europe forever.

Back in North Andover on Wednesday, Feb. 3, museum consultant Susan Montgomery will present the curvilinear delights of Art Nouveau, most familiar to Americans through the work of Louis Tiffany. Dr. Montgomery will show how Art Nouveau affected clothing, furniture and architecture.

A lecture on Art Deco will close the series in Andover on Wednesday, Feb. 10. Janine Falino, associate curator of American Decorative Arts at Boston's Museum of Fine Arts, will review the features of this style, which gave us structures as varied as the Empire State Building and everybody's hometown diner.

Art Deco reached into the home as well in the period's glass, pottery and furnishings.

Treble Chorus of New England to play two concerts at Memorial Music Hall

Join the Treble Chorus of New England for two holiday concerts, "Christmas in New England," on Saturday, Dec. 19, at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 20, at 4 p.m. Both performances will be at the historic Methuen Memorial Music Hall, 182 Broadway in Methuen.

Marie Stultz will lead the Treble Chorus of New England in My Dancing Day by John Rutter, Missa Brevis in D by Britten, A Suite on Christmas Spirituals, English carols by Vaughan Williams, Walton and Willcocks and special arrangements she has written. The audience will have an opportunity to join the children in well-loved carols.

Featured guest artist is Marcus DeLoach of Andover, winner of the 1992 Presidential Award given by the National Association for the Advancement of the Arts. Mr. DeLoach is studying opera at New England Conservatory.

The Treble Chorus of New England recently returned from an engagement at Harrods in London. They were sponsored by Greater Boston Visitors Bureau and Convention Center to be cultural ambassadors from the six New England states. Earlier in the month they joined the Boston Cecilia to celebrate the holiday season with two performances in Boston. The Treble Chorus of

New England and the Treble Chorus Youth Ensemble includes children from three states and 29 cities and towns chosen by audition who study a demanding curriculum of classical and contemporary works in seven languages.

Singing with the Treble Chorus of New England are the following Andover students: Catherine and Stanley Cannon of 54 Abbot St.; Aimee Dollard of 8 Arrowwood Lane; Jared Feinberg of 15 Wild Rose Drive; Susan James of 5 Hartford Circle; Sarah King of 1 Burton Farm Drive; Joe Lovoi of 21 Enfield Drive; Brian Morrissey of 11 Cherrywood Circle; Emma Nowinski of 14 Stratford Road; Billy Sutherland of 17 Kenilworth St.; Susan Wheeler of 167 Woburn St.; and Carolyn Yoder of 8 Cameron Road.

Singing with the Youth Ensemble are: Andrew DeLollis of 17 Stinson Road; Ashley MacMillan of School Street; Frank Mundo of 5 Arrowwood Lane; Kelsey Peterson of 39 Lovejoy Road; Alicia Wagner of 25 Lucerne Drive; and Emily and John Shannon Wheeler of 167 Woburn St.

This concert is sponsored in part by the Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency, and the Arts Councils of 14 Massachusetts towns. Call 664-4705 to order, or purchase tickets at the door.

The deadline for news & info for the next issue is 5 p.m. Monday, Dec. 21.

Free tickets available for rescheduled DCS Holiday Craft Show

The third annual Department of Community Services Craft Show, scheduled for last Sunday, Dec. 13, was postponed until Sunday, Dec. 20, due to the snowstorm. The show will be held at Old Town Hall from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Historical societies collaborate on 1993 lecturesDecorative arts series to focus on four approaches to the arts

By Virginia Lopez Begg
Andover Historical Society

As the 20th century draws to a close, it is time to look back and see where we have been in the arts as in everything else. That is the goal of this year's decorative arts series, an annual event jointly sponsored by the Andover and North Andover historical societies and the Stevens-Coolidge Place.

This year's lectures will focus on aspects of four early 20th-century approaches to the arts: Colonial Revival, Edwardian, Art Nouveau and Art Deco. The programs will take place on Wednesdays in January and February from 7 to 9 p.m. and will alternate between the Old Center Hall at 3 Great Pond Road in North Andover and the Andover Historical Society's Amos Blanchard House on Main Street. There is a $10 fee for each lecture, with a discount on the entire series. Information and registration are available at the Andover Historical Society, 475-2236.

Margaret Henderson Floyd, professor of art history at Tufts University, will discuss Colonial Revival architecture on Wednesday, Jan. 20. There are so many examples of this style in our area. A new interest in America's past was born at the Philadelphia Centennial Exposition in 1876. Americans began to collect their own antiques, found ancestor societies and design houses and gardens as they interpreted those of pre-Revolutionary times. Dr. Floyd has an extensive list of publications and teaching credits in her field. The lecture will be held in North Andover.

On Wednesday, Jan. 27, Gloria Lieberman will present a program on early 20th-century jewelry, Edwardian, Art Nouveau and Art Deco, at the Andover Historical Society. Ms. Lieberman, is with the jewelry department at Skinner's Auction Galleries. She will talk about the sparkling creations of this era, beginning with England's Queen Victoria's son, whose brief reign glittered before the dark days of World War I snuffed it out and changed Europe forever.

Back in North Andover on Wednesday, Feb. 3, museum consultant Susan Montgomery will present the curvilinear delights of Art Nouveau, most familiar to Americans through the work of Louis Tiffany. Dr. Montgomery will show how Art Nouveau affected clothing, furniture and architecture.

A lecture on Art Deco will close the series in Andover on Wednesday, Feb. 10. Janine Falino, associate curator of American Decorative Arts at Boston's Museum of Fine Arts, will review the features of this style, which gave us structures as varied as the Empire State Building and everybody's hometown diner.

Art Deco reached into the home as well in the period's glass, pottery and furnishings.

Treble Chorus of New England to play two concerts at Memorial Music Hall

Join the Treble Chorus of New England for two holiday concerts, "Christmas in New England," on Saturday, Dec. 19, at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 20, at 4 p.m. Both performances will be at the historic Methuen Memorial Music Hall, 182 Broadway in Methuen.

Marie Stultz will lead the Treble Chorus of New England in My Dancing Day by John Rutter, Missa Brevis in D by Britten, A Suite on Christmas Spirituals, English carols by Vaughan Williams, Walton and Willcocks and special arrangements she has written. The audience will have an opportunity to join the children in well-loved carols.

Featured guest artist is Marcus DeLoach of Andover, winner of the 1992 Presidential Award given by the National Association for the Advancement of the Arts. Mr. DeLoach is studying opera at New England Conservatory.

The Treble Chorus of New England recently returned from an engagement at Harrods in London. They were sponsored by Greater Boston Visitors Bureau and Convention Center to be cultural ambassadors from the six New England states. Earlier in the month they joined the Boston Cecilia to celebrate the holiday season with two performances in Boston. The Treble Chorus of

New England and the Treble Chorus Youth Ensemble includes children from three states and 29 cities and towns chosen by audition who study a demanding curriculum of classical and contemporary works in seven languages.

Singing with the Treble Chorus of New England are the following Andover students: Catherine and Stanley Cannon of 54 Abbot St.; Aimee Dollard of 8 Arrowwood Lane; Jared Feinberg of 15 Wild Rose Drive; Susan James of 5 Hartford Circle; Sarah King of 1 Burton Farm Drive; Joe Lovoi of 21 Enfield Drive; Brian Morrissey of 11 Cherrywood Circle; Emma Nowinski of 14 Stratford Road; Billy Sutherland of 17 Kenilworth St.; Susan Wheeler of 167 Woburn St.; and Carolyn Yoder of 8 Cameron Road.

Singing with the Youth Ensemble are: Andrew DeLollis of 17 Stinson Road; Ashley MacMillan of School Street; Frank Mundo of 5 Arrowwood Lane; Kelsey Peterson of 39 Lovejoy Road; Alicia Wagner of 25 Lucerne Drive; and Emily and John Shannon Wheeler of 167 Woburn St.

This concert is sponsored in part by the Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency, and the Arts Councils of 14 Massachusetts towns. Call 664-4705 to order, or purchase tickets at the door.

The deadline for news & info for the next issue is 5 p.m. Monday, Dec. 21.

Free tickets available for rescheduled DCS Holiday Craft Show

The third annual Department of Community Services Craft Show, scheduled for last Sunday, Dec. 13, was postponed until Sunday, Dec. 20, due to the snowstorm. The show will be held at Old Town Hall from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The complimentary tickets for free admission last Sunday will be honored. Free tickets are still available at DCS in town offices.

Local dancer, Phillips Academy student, to perform in Dance Prism production

The Nutcracker comes to Collins Center Sunday

The Dance Prism will perform The Nutcracker at the Collins Center, Sunday, Dec. 20, at 2:30 p.m. This is one stop of the company's 10th annual 15-city New England tour with the traditional Christmas ballet.

Marie-Helene Renaud, a student at Phillips Academy, will dance as a member of the Flower Corps and the Snow Corps and the role of Trepak in the Divertissements. Marie-Helene studies dance at Bay State Ballet Theatre in Lowell under the direction of Scott Ranagan, and also at Phillips Academy under the direction of Mimi Ferrell.

Included in the performance are all the anticipated wonders of Nutcracker: a sleigh with reindeer, a magically growing Christmas tree and mysterious boxes from which pop all sorts of surprises. The production carries more than 200 colorful costumes and scenery that transports the audience from a Victorian parlor to the Snow Forest and the Palace of Sweets.

The Dance Prism, co-directed by Mary DeMaso and Scott Ranagan, is a Boston-based touring company which performs throughout New England as a chamber ballet for much of the year. Its professional dancers come from New York, Pennsylvania, New England, and Athens, Greece.

The tickets are $12 for adults, $6 for children and seniors; group rates are available. They can be bought at the Doherty Realty Agency, 21 Elm St., or can be charged by calling 441-9711 or (617) 273-0345.

A Christmas Carol Saturday at Doherty auditorium

The Mother Connection presents a new musical version of Charles Dickens' holiday classic, A Christmas Carol.

Performed by the Broadway Musical Express, the show will be held Saturday, Dec. 19, at the Doherty Middle School auditorium.

A Christmas Carol is the story of the conversion of a greedy old tightwad into a generous, lovable soul. The tale will be brought to life on stage with everyone's favorite characters, including old Scrooge, who learns the lessons of love and sharing the Christmas season teaches.

The show is geared for children ages 2 and older. Performances are at 2:30 and 5:30 p.m. Tickets are $5 for children and $7 for adults and will be available at the door.

The Mother Connection is a non-profit organization providing information, recreation, resources and support for mothers and families in the Merrimack Valley.

Olympic officials monitor
Diana Liberty's progress

Andover High freshman swimmer Diana Liberty was scheduled to spend four days at the Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, Colo., this week.

This is the second straight year Miss Liberty has been invited to Colorado as U.S. Olympic officials monitor her progress as a distance swimmer.

"They are very interested in Diana because she is a premiere distance swimmer at such a young age" (14 years), explained Andover High varsity girls' swim team Coach Marilyn Fitzgerald.

"Each year they bring the top young swimmers from around the country to Colorado to see if they are progressing on schedule in terms of Olympic Games potential. Diana is a rare talent."

Miss Liberty, who has competed locally, regionally and nationally, made an auspicious high school varsity debut this fall as she went undefeated in all dual meet races and capped the season by winning the State 500-yard freestyle championship last month.

Athletes receive awards

By Rick Harrison

Josh Nelken (boys' soccer), Steve Shepard (football), Diana Liberty (girls' swimming), Kerry Hagerty (volleyball), Katie Walsh (field hockey) and Hilary Recesso (girls' soccer) were named MVP of their respective varsity sport to highlight a series of Andover High fall athletic awards dinners held recently.

Boys' Soccer

Josh Nelken, who led the Golden Warriors' 15-4-2 team in scoring with 14 goals and seven assists, was named MVP and junior forward Quang Nguyen was elected captain for the 1993 season to highlight the combined boys' and girls' soccer banquet at the Andover Marriott.

Other major winners were Keith Selvitelli (Coach's Award), Kevin Nusky (Andrew Sartory Memorial Sportsmanship Award), Rhett Bachner (Unsung Hero), Eric Fox (Most Improved Player), Lyle Morgan (12th Player) and Matt Reghitto (Most Outstanding Defender).

Nelken also won Most Outstanding Forward and Nusky Most Outstanding Midfielder.

The Sartory Award is named in memory of a 12-year old Eastman Drive resident, an Andover Youth Soccer Association player who was struck and killed by an automobile while delivering newspapers several years ago.

Nelson was elected team captain by vote of the players, and two additional co-captains will be selected following pre-season workouts next fall.

Sharing the junior varsity MVP award are Dan Small and Will Hall, while Jon Larrobin was chosen Most Improved Player and Matt Small the Unsung Hero.

Freshman boys' soccer awards went to Sean Rodriguez (MVP), Dave Huberman (Most Valuable Defender), Alex Dalis (Unsung Hero) and Chris Rogers (Coach's Award).

Football

Steve Shepard, who led the 7-3-0 grid squad with 86 points and around 1,000 yards rushing, received the Eugene V. Lovely Memorial Award as

Track teams win season openers

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High boys' and girls' indoor track teams launched their 1992-93 winter seasons successfully Monday evening, as both Warrior teams defeated their Methuen counterparts at the Methuen High Field House.

The Lady Warriors placed first in six of the 10 events, sweeping the 1000 yard run and mile, en route to a 51-35 triumph over the Rangers.

The AHS boys also registered a 16-point dual meet decision, earning seven first places and sweeping the 50-yard hurdles for a 48-32 win.

Both teams will return to action a week from Monday, Dec. 28, against North Reading High at Methuen.

The first real test for both comes on Jan. 4 when the Andover girls face Masconomet Regional and the boys oppose Central Catholic.

Andover girls, 51-35

The most interesting race of the day was the 1000, where three Andover girls finished less than a stride apart to complete the sweep.

Tricia McNeice won the race in 3:11.7, Heather Holmender was second in 3:11.8 and Leigh Clarke a close third in 3:11.9.

Less dramatic but also worth nine points was the sweep of the mile behind winner Amanda Holmes (6:04.8), runner-up Madhavi Reddy (6:20.7) and third place finisher Melanie McGarry (6:35.9).

Jen Batts also had a big day for Andover, winning the 600 yard run in 1:39.8 and running the first leg for the victorious mile relay team. She was joined on the relay squad by Rebecca Goldenberg, Stacey Lavoie and Sarah Witman.

Batts and anchorwoman Witman ran the fastest legs, both clocked in 66.9, while the overall effort was 4:31.1.

Other winners for the Lady Warriors were two-miler Ellen Sullivan (13:11.0) and sprinter Jamie Barron (6.6 in 50 dash).

Adding second places were freshman two-miler Sara Goldin (15:39.0), 50-yard hurdler Goldenberg (8.5) and Witman in the 300-yard dash (42.2).

Also finishing third were Melissa Gould in the 50 dash (6.8), freshman hurdler Carol Cunningham (9.1), Amy Levesque in the 300 dash (43.4) and Valerie Gould in the 600 run (1:48.2).

Methuen swept both field events, the high jump and shot put, to account for more than half its 35 points.

Andover boys, 48-32

Steve Shepard had a big day for the Golden Warriors, leading the sweep of the 50-yard hurdles (5.7) and placed second in the high jump (5'4").

Other individual winners were Rob Weisman in the 300 dash (36.5), Colin Arsenault in the 600 run (1:19.8), Matt Ely in the 1000 yard run (2:33.9), miler Brian Twomey (4:54.1), two-miler Max Dawson (10:39.7) and shot putter Sean O'Leary (43'3").

Completing the house cleaning in the hurdles were Bob Minasian and Eric Fox, both of whom were timed in 7.5 seconds.

Chad Collins was runner-up in the mile (5:05.1), and third places were taken by sprinter Brian Croteau (5.8), Josh Nelken in the 600 run (1:26.6), Doug Edmonds in the 1000 yard run (2:41.0), Mark Adams in the duce (11:08.2), high jumper Drew Leinson (5'4") and shot putter J.P. Ciruso (41'3"). The mile relay race was short-circuited, with Andover ahead, when a track official miscounted laps.

Shea, Benedict earn athletic awards

Two senior students from Andover received awards at Governor Dummer Academy's fall athletic awards dinner Nov. 18.

John H. Shea was awarded the Coaches Award and chosen as an Independent School League All-

League Player. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew F. Shea III of Orchard Street.

Jason Benedict, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Benedict of Andover Street, was chosen as an Independent School League All-League Player.

team MVP at last Sunday night's banquet held at the high school cafeteria and Collins Center.

Shepard shared top billing with elected 1993 quad-captains Toby Guzowski, Matt Wolcott, Paul Allard and Phil Smith.

Other top varsity honorees were Alan Guibord (Gus Connolly Memorial Sportsmanship Award), Colin Arsenault (Edwards Collins Memorial Outstanding Offensive Back Award), Sean O'Leary (Charles Maurikas Memorial Outstanding Line-man Award), Mike Roberts (Wil Hixon Outstanding Defensive Back Award) and J.P. Ciruso (Ken Seifert Outstanding Defensive Lineman Award).

Game balls, one for each of the seven Andover victories, were presented to Adam Goddess, Rod Lumley, Scott Henry, Bryan Adams, Cam Arnott, Steve Marchlik and Mark Maesano.

Joe Cerami of Eastern Mass. Division 2-A champion Methuen High was honored as Andover's Outstanding Opponent.

Girls' Swimming

Freshman sensation Diana Liberty, the 1992 State 500-yard freestyle champion, was named Most Outstanding Swimmer and senior Anne Mil-moe Most Outstanding Diver at the swim team banquet at the Andover High cafeteria.

Mindy Fox and Whitney Bates were also named 1993 team co-captains.

Other major diving awards went to Stacey Thresher (Most Improved) and Amanda Schaa-ke (Coach's Award).

Other major swimming awards were received by Ronit Shteyer and Karen Murphy (co-Most Improved), both of whom qualified and scored in the North Sectional and State Meets, Mindy Fox (Coach's Award), Carrie Moran (Sportsmanship Award) and Chrissy DerAnanian (Perfect Attendance Award) who did not miss any of the Lady Warriors' 70 sessions (practices and meets).

Diana Liberty and Tracie Grant were given medals in recognition of their Merrimack Valley Conference All-Star status, and MIAA Certificates were presented to Sectional qualifiers Kerry Brady, Mandy Wilson, Megan Miller, Liberty, Grant, Milmo, Bates, DerAnanian, Fox, Shteyer, Moran, Murphy and Thresher.

Amanda Schaa-ke also qualified but was unable to compete because of mononucleosis.

The girls' swim team banquet was put together by the parents, who also decorated the cafeteria for the occasion.

Cross Country

The AHS boys' and girls' cross country teams announced next year's captains and honored their league All-Star representatives in a gathering at South Church.

Named tri-captains for the 1993 boys' harrier squad were Max Dawson, Kevin Sharkey and Jim Stratton, while the 1993 girls' tri-captains are Amanda Grasso, Melanie McGarry and Amanda Verrault.

Merrimack Valley Conference All-Star runners from Andover are Brian Twomey, Todd Taylor, Erik Dahlstrand, Heather Holmader and Amanda Holmes.

Volleyball

Kerry Hagerty was named Most Valuable Player at the annual volleyball breakup banquet at the Andover Jade last week, while Carrie Green was voted captain of the 1993 team.

Raking in the other top individual awards were Erinne Sullivan (Most Improved Player), Sarah Tully (7th Player), Joanna Moynihan (Coach's Award), Julie Doherty (Unsung Hero), Holly Wright (Top Defensive Player), Melissa Minot (Top Offensive Player), sophomore Leah Mason (Most Improved Rookie) and Sarah Schmuhl (Spir-it Award).

All the above-named girls and Rebecca Golden berg were presented varsity letters by Coaches Art Iworsley and George Sullivan.

The junior varsity volleyballs were presented with certificates of participation and small gift items.

Field Hockey

The Andover MVP award in field hockey went to MVC All-Conference player Katie Walsh, while 1993 captains-elect Stacey Lavoie, Katie McClune and Andrea Minichiello were also among those feted at the Andover Marriott recently.

The three new captains presented gifts to graduating seniors Walsh, Jen Batts and Melissa Leitch, captains of this season's 4-10-3 varsity team, as well as Jinyi Joo, Sarah Wallace, Sarah Witham and Becca Morrison.

Coach Sandy Lunt also presented awards to MVC All-Star Joo (Coach's Award) and junior goaltender Tanielle Smith (Most Improved).

Principal Tim Thomas spoke at the banquet, attended by 95 players, coaches, parents and invited guests. Varsity letters and junior varsity certificates were distributed, the latter by George Walsh who directed the JVs to a 9-2-4 mark.

Girls' Soccer

The girls' soccer team also held its banquet at the Andover Marriott, recognizing players for their outstanding achievements.

All players received certificates from the coaches and an Andover soccer sweatshirt from the Boosters Association.

Junior Amy Pierro was elected captain of the 1993 girls' varsity soccer team.

Varsity honorees were Hilary Recesso (MVP), Becky Levine (Coach's Award), Rachel Roberts (Hardock Award), Lindsey Sweeney (Corkery Award), Alyssa Sonntag (Unsung Hero), Colleen Murnane (Sportsmanship Award), Maureen Wade and Michelle Morey (Loyalty Awards) and Kara O'Handley (Andrew Sartory Memorial Award).

Co-MVPs of the junior varsity squad were Robin LaPointe and Angie Roux, while other hardware went to Amy Bagge-roer (Best Forward), Alison Georgian (Best Midfielder), Rachel Buonopane (Best Defender), Meghan Lynch (Coach's Award) and Sarah Paskowsky (Most Improved Player).

Liz Salvia was chosen freshman MVP, while additional winners were Randi Spiegel (Best Forward), Christine Contos (Best Defender), Missy Famiglietti (Coach's Award), Jen Aylward and Jen Schapira (co-Most Improved) and Jen Prudden (Unsung Hero).

The presentations were made by varsity Coach Dick Loschi, JV Coach Karl Lippmann and freshman Coach Kathy McCormott.

Coach Cullen rebuilds team after losing players, coach

By Rick Harrison

When Andover High hockey Coach Bill Cullen took inventory at the end of last season, he knew the loss of 12 graduating seniors would leave the Golden Warriors with a formidable rebuilding task.

Included among the dozen were the No. 1 goaltender, a top defenseman and seven forwards who had combined to score 55 of the 84 goals for a team that finished 13-8-2 and went to the third round of the Eastern Mass. Division 2 Tournament.

The 13 victories marked a new single-season school record.

What hadn't been anticipated was the loss of several top underclassmen through transfer and other unforeseen circumstances. Those departures took away a second top goalie, a solid defenseman and several forwards who accounted for 10 of the remaining 29 goals.

Equally devastating to Cullen was the loss of Assistant Coach Scott Seero.

"Scott's loss is at the top of the list. It will be felt by everyone," noted Coach Cullen. "When I came here last year he made the transition much easier."

Seero stepped down to pursue private business interests. Former Lawrence High and Salem State College baseball/hockey standout Bill Blackwell, with the Andover program several years on a volunteer basis, is now the full-time varsity assistant.

So the formidable rebuilding task has become a Herculean one.

Eight veterans, including three defensemen and five forwards, comprise this year's nucleus.

Young and eager

"Obviously we're very young," said Coach Cullen. "Only three (of 25) players on the varsity roster are seniors. And we're small up front."

"But what we lack in experience we make up for in excitement, and our lack of size is offset by our spirit. We also have outstanding speed. All these kids are excellent skaters."

"Our strength is on defense, where we have three talented veterans," said Coach Cullen. "They have decent size and play a tough, physical style."

"We'll improve with time, and what we have to instill in the players is confidence and the knowledge they must work hard at every practice and game."

"What I like best about this group is their attitude and enthusiasm," added Coach Cullen. "I can't wait to get to the rink each day to work with these kids."

This is only Coach Cullen's second year at Andover, but his 24th overall after previous stints as an assistant at Malden Catholic, Acton-Boxboro, Methuen and head coach at Wilmington.

Andover resident Cullen, along with Coach Blackwell and returning junior varsity skipper Ralph Quaglietta, greeted 40 candidates at the first workout.

Among the 12 senior graduates were goaltender Mike Daley, versatile forward-defenseman Bob Sheehan, scoring leaders Bill Owens (14-8-22 points) and Chris Pothier (10-10-20), Dan Feeley (8-10-18), Steve Neal (8-8-16), Brian Jones (4-9-13) and defenseman/Captain Todd Allard (2-6-8).

Returning players

The three returning defensemen are senior fourth-year player and two-time Merrimack Valley Conference All-Star Justin Hesenius, headed for Rollins College on a baseball scholarship next fall, junior Paul Allard and junior Dan Trede.

Hesenius scored seven goals and passed out eight assists last winter, while Allard and Trede are three-year vets. Hesenius and Allard are co-captains.

The top point producer among the five returning forwards is junior Bob Daley, who contributed four goals and nine assists last year.

Other varsity veterans up front, all of whom saw limited ice time, are senior Doug Batchelder and sophomores Dan Hansberry, Scott Munroe and Scott Sullivan.

The new forwards are juniors Marc Escott, Sean Donohue and Craig Edwards, sophomores Mike Dalton, Dana DiFiore and Todd Thistle, and freshmen Chris Cullen, Dave Salafia, Jeff Mazza and Ed Seero.

New defensemen are senior John Brodine, junior Matt Johnson and freshmen Jeff Hesenius and Brian Kwon.

The three goaltenders are junior Phil Smith, sophomore Peter Afarian and sophomore Jason Veilleux.

Escott, Donohue, Edwards, Dalton, DiFiore, Thistle, Johnson, Brodine, Smith, Afarian and Veilleux are all up from Coach Quaglietta's undefeated JV team, which went 19-0-1 last year and lost out on the perfect record with a season-ending 0-0 tie against Central Catholic.

The freshmen played for traveling Bantam teams last year, while coach's son Cullen also skated in a college developmental league in Hingham and Jeff Hesenius with the Lowell Junior Chiefs at Assabet Valley.

Lines set up

On defense, Justin Hesenius will be paired with Trede, Allard with Jeff Hesenius, and Kwon, Johnson and Brodine will alternate as the third tandem.

Andover had pre-season scrimmages with Woburn, Masconomet Regional and Newburyport, while last weekend's schedule Jamboree appearance was cancelled by the snowstorm.

The regular season opened last night with a non-league game at Haverhill, and the Warriors return to non-league play Saturday night against Beverly High at Salem State College (7:30 p.m.).

Three more non-leaguers precede the MVC opener Jan. 2 against Wilmington.

Coach Cullen feels Methuen, which ousted Andover from last year's tournament (5-0) and battled to the EMass. Division 2 semifinal round, will be the league Small School power while regulars Billerica, Chelmsford and Central Catholic should again battle for Large School honors.

Bill Cullen
AHS varsity ice hockey coach

Andover residents Wayne Samuels, far left, and his son, Nathan, present Red Sox play Bob Zupcic with a contribution to the Jimmy Fund, along with Brian and Dan Bazinet, of Holden. Mr. Samuels and Mr. Bazinet are executives at the Overland Trading Co. The contribution was made on the behalf of all the employees who donated money for the cause.

Dancers win awards at competition

Students from Nancy Chippendale's School of Dance entered the regional Headliners Competition in Waltham, Nov. 14 and 15. Of the 11 groups competing, eight received gold awards, three silver awards, two cash awards and two special judges' awards.

Travis Doucette won the title of Master Headliner, a gold award and a cash award. He performed a tap routine to "Alabama Bound."

Karen Carberry won a High Silver Award for her tap dance to "Sing, Sing, Sing."

Kristen Remmes received a silver award for her tap dancing to "Johnny's Mambo."

Lisa Allen

Lisa Allen plays college soccer

Lisa Allen, daughter of Fred Erick and Irita Allen of Andover, will play forward for the 1992 Bridgewater State College women's soccer team. The Lady Bears are coming off a 1991 season when they had a 12-5-1 record.

Allen is a graduate of Andover High School where she competed in soccer, skiing and track.

She is a sophomore majoring in physical education.

Adam Ferry

Adam Ferry plays college basketball

Adam Ferry is a 6-foot, 200-pound freshman starting forward for the Plymouth State College Panthers junior varsity basketball team. The team plays prep school, such as Brewster Academy and Bridgeton academy, several Division 1 prospects and other small and junior colleges.

The former "all conference" MVC tennis, football and basketball player for Andover High School wears his family's number 35 for Panthers.

Ballardvale, Faith Lutheran start boys' senior ACBL season with three-point wins Ballardvale United and Faith Lutheran both kicked off their Andover Church Basketball League Boys' Senior Division (seventh-eighth grade) seasons with three-point victories at Andover High. BU edging Free Christian 28-25 and Lutheran nudging St. Robert's B 31-28.

In other opening-day play, St. Augustine B ripped St. Robert's A 29-9 and St. Augustine A trimmed St. Augustine C 32-20.

Ballardvale, 28-25

United, with an imposing front line of Jay Harmon (6'0"), Nick Rausco (5'11") and Erik Froburg (5'10"), had all it could handle from the hard-nosed Free Christian crew.

A 12-4 second quarter, led by Harmon who swished three corner jump shots, spelled the difference for the winners who led 18-12 at half and then hung tough.

Harmon scored 12 of his game-high 13 points in the first half. Froburg added 4 points, Mark Flanagan 3, Mike Orlandella and Rausco one bucket apiece, Elvis de la Rosa and Jimmy Rita two free throws each.

Forward Jason Caverly countered with 10 for Free Christian, guard Matt Gilmore netted 7 points, center Craig Hartwell (5'10") four, Jamie Madigan 2, and single free throws by Keith D'Amelio and Brian Kiberd.

Both teams finished with 11 field goals, but Ballardvale held a winning 6-for-9 to 3-for-10 edge at the charity stripe.

Faith Lutheran, 31-28

The winners spotted St. Robert's B an 8-3 first quarter lead, pulled even 15-15 at half, and snapped a 23-23 fourth-period tie behind the sharp shooting of Nick Wilson.

Wilson (6'1") scored three baskets down the stretch and finished with a game-high 19 points. Mark Breiland added 8 and single field goals were contributed by Randy Romano and Matt Wessler.

Allison Daher scores game-winner for St. Augustine A in girls' senior ACBL action

Allison Daher's game-winning basket lifted St. Augustine A to a come-from-behind 20-19 victory over St. Robert's A to highlight Andover Church Basketball League Girls' Senior Division action on opening day.

In other games at Andover High, West Parish topped St. Augustine B 20-14 and Ballardvale United rattled St. Robert's B 23-7.

St. Augustine A, 20-19

Trailing 19-14 entering the fourth quarter, SAA held St. Robert's A scoreless and prevailed on Allison Daher's close-in shot with 1:33 remaining.

Daher finished with a game-high 14 points, while single baskets were contributed by Suzanne Meeker, guard Christine Casey and guard Noelle Blank. Daher scored all six fourth-quarter points for the winners.

Stephanie Banos paced SRA with 8 points and a solid all-around effort, while Julie Ahern added 4 points, Anne Marie Paone 3, Rachel Newman 2 and Lisa Zonghetti 2.

West Parish, 20-14

West Parish, last year's undefeated Intermediate Division champion, continued its winning ways in its Senior debut by employing a tough man-to-man defense.

St. Augustine B hung tough for a half, trailing only 8-4, but a 10-0 third-period burst put the game

Three points win game for two boys' senior ACBL teams

Nine players scored for balanced SRB, led by Chris Drizen with 6 points, Dave Carroll 4, Jeff Cutler 4, Luke Pearson 4, Ed Tayes 3, Matt Stitham 2, Bryan Olender 2, Jeff Bellistri 2 and Pete Maguire one free throw.

St. Augustine B, 29-9
Dan Liffman (inside) pocketed 9 points and guard Dan Gosselin (outside) added 8 as SAB romped, riding 10-2 and 9-0 advantages in the first and third quarters to the victory over St. Robert's A.

Shaun Connors added 4 points and single baskets were netted by Jeff Gaunt, Andy Parker, Matt Rogers and Adam Tripi.

Jarrold Hyman (4), Scott Thompson (3) and Mike Kelly (2) produced the offense for SRA.

St. Augustine A, 32-20
Defending division champ SAA used a trapping half-court defense to negate the inside strength of St. Augustine C, stealing the ball numerous times to set up easy layups.

It was 14-1 after one period and 30-9 after three, making a late 11-2 run by SAC merely academic. Mike Couture scored 8 points for the winners, Peter Bernardin and Joe Jelson had 6 each, Jeff Danis and Luis Dominguez 4 apiece, Chris Lustig 2 and Eric Sayers 2.

Ethan and Josh Murphy netted 6 points each for St. Augustine C, Ron Hajj 5, Chris Lane 2 and Tom Woods a free throw.

ACBL junior division launches season

The Andover Church Basketball League Junior Division (third- to fourth-grade) launched its season at the Wet Middle School gym.

Results of first-week action:

St. Augustine A 33 - Temple Emanuel 26
Tied 5-5 after one period, St. Augustine A took a 17-15 lead at intermission and outscored Temple Emanuel 16-11 in the second to win the game 33-26.

Dan Bellaqua, Sean Carlson and Kevin Shepard had eight points each, Trevor Thibault chipped in six and Ryan Piazza a foul shot.

Mike DaSilva had 11 points for Temple Emanuel, Spencer Washburn added seven, Jon Konjoian six and Ben Waxler two. Mat Katzmer and Brett Konjoian were also standouts.

St. Augustine D 24 - St. Augustine E 6
St. Augustine D inched to a 2-0 first-quarter lead over St. Augustine E, increased it to 8-2 at halftime and 18-4 after three periods.

Peter Burbank and Stephen Hibino had 10 points each and Patrick Stockwood notched four. Dave Connors and Owen Fitzpatrick also played well.

Katie Kramer, Adam Lundquist and Peter Marino led St. Augustine E with two points apiece, while Heather Berquist, Jenna Berquist and Kathleen Lombard turned in strong efforts.

St. Robert A 36 - St. Robert B 8
Danny Hughes and Justin Murray combined talents for 26 points to lead St. Robert A to a 36-8 win over St. Robert B. SRA led 16-3, 18-7 and 36-7 at the first three checkpoints.

Hughes had 16 points, Murray 10, John Canavan four, Andrew Varley and away for West.

Laura Orlando and Charlotte Muller scored 6 points apiece, Sarah Muller added 4, Viki Pierce 2 and Sarah Morrison 2.

Kristin Games and Caroline Torrisi netted 4 points each for SAB, guard Kathleen Busby had a strong all-around performance and joined Kaitlen Dargan and Jessie Fontanella with single baskets.

Ballardvale United, 23-7

Ballardvale used its domination of the boards to key the triumph over St. Robert's B, Susan Tully (5'8") and Sera Coppolino (5'7") sweeping the glass consistently.

Tully led BU with a game-high 10 points, Jennie Murnane had 5 points and played well defensively, Lindsay Corcoran 4 points, Dianna Correnti 2 and Beth Murphy 2.

Jenna Hartwell, Lauren Sweeney and Jessica Puccia had baskets for the youthful SRB crew, all seventh graders, while Michelle King notched a free throw.

Noreen Rourke of Langford's Seafood.

Langford's Seafood

The warm weather we have enjoyed this fall has enabled the fishermen to stay out fishing, so has kept the price of fresh seafood reasonable. Langford's Seafood, of Lawrence, has a 47-year tradition of supplying the area with the largest variety of the freshest seafood at the lowest price. Fish is a healthy and affordable protein source with no cholesterol and very little fat. And with fish, you pay for what you eat, with little or no waste.

Langford's Seafood is planning for a strong holiday season. The supply of shrimp and lobsters will be plentiful and weather permitting, the catch of the day prices will remain reasonable.

Shrimp platters will be available as usual, along with a wide selection of other fresh seafood choices. Fresh lobster meat will be available, but you need to call ahead to place your order.

Langford's famous fish and chips will be available on Christmas Eve day (Thursday) as Christmas will be on Friday this year. The fish and chips will be ready from 10:30-6 p.m. Stop by and take the hassle out of the Night Before Christmas dinner.

Langford's also has some great holiday gift ideas. Their ready-made frozen entrees make a wonderful gift for someone who lives alone and finds cooking a chore. And who wouldn't love to receive a gift certificate for a lobster or some shrimp or salmon, and it's much healthier than a box of chocolates.

Be sure to include some seafood meals in your plans for the holiday season and remember that Langford's Seafood is the place to get the freshest seafood available. Located just over the Andover line in South Lawrence, Langford's can be found at 229 South Union St. There is ample parking available in their lot. Hours are M-Th 7-5, Fri. 7-7 and Sat. 8-4. Phone: (508) 682-3791.

Holiday display at Holland's Flower Shoppe
Holland's Flower Shoppe

Holland's Flower Shoppe's owners Mike and Kathy Holland have provided the highest quality fresh flowers to the Merrimack Valley community for over 10 years. The Hollands, residents of North Andover, specialize in using Dutch flowers and Dutch garden designs.

Christmas has arrived at Holland's Flower Shoppe, and wonderful holiday decorating ideas are found throughout the shop. Poinsettias in a variety of sizes and colors are available, as well as beautifully decorated boxwood trees. Holland's also has a selection of Christmas centerpieces or they will make one to your specifications. Christmas cactuses in a variety of colors and sizes are available as well as many other flowering plants.

Holland's Flower Shoppe also carries greens for your decorating needs. They have wreaths available and they will custom design a wreath to harmonize with your home. Various types of roping are available and they have Norfolk Pine trees in several sizes, which come plain or decorated for the holidays. Memorial baskets are also available.

Scattered among the living decorations of the season, Holland's also has a selection of Christmas ornaments and decorative items. This year they are introducing a new line of International Santa figures that will brighten your home. Stuffed animals are available and, of course, balloons. Holland's Flower Shoppe also carries dried flower arrangements and wreaths which are wonderful gift ideas.

Mike and Kathy are always available for advice. There is no charge for local delivery (North Andover, Andover, Methuen, Lawrence, Salem and Haverhill) for purchases over $40. A minimal fee is charged beyond these areas. Major credit cards are honored and orders may be placed by phone. Holland's Flower Shoppe is an FTD member which allows them to ship throughout the country.

Holland's Flower Shoppe maintains a 24-hour-a-day line for phone orders. Hours: M-F 8-6, Sat. 8-5, and during the Christmas season, Sundays 10-4. They are located at 139 Main St., North Andover. Telephone: (508) 685-3213. Susan Pokress Maria Coco with fresh baked bread.

International Bread BasketHoliday celebrations usually mean lots of baking. This year let the International Bread Basket take some of that burden from you. Owner Maria Coco, formerly of Anna Loro Bakery, has been at her present location for over a year and her business continues to grow.
She is working to make this the best Italian-Lebanese bakery in town and most of her customers agree that she has succeeded.For your holiday needs, the International Bread Basket makes all types of Italian bread, including braided loaves, as well as a large assortment of rolls, including dinner and finger rolls.
Several types of Syrian breads are available, as well as American-style breadFor dessert, the choices from the International Bread Basket are overwhelming. Cookie trays of Christmas and Italian cookies are available, as well as cannolis and other cream pastries. Fruit and cream pies will be freshly baked and special Christmas cakes and cupcakes will be featured. A five-pound Boston style cheesecake (fresh) will be available with your choice of fruits, either swirled into the cake or topping it as a glaze. Baklava and an assortment of pastries and turnovers are more of the desert choices offered. Of course, the International Bread Basket's famous 3-layer Chocolate Bavarian Cream Cake will be available. Maria suggests ordering ahead to ensure the availability of any of the items you would like

For Christmas Eve dinner, you can pick up meat or spinach pies, pizza or cal-zone at the International Bread Basket.Luncheon offerings include hot, homemade soup and deli sandwiches, salads and a different hot entree each day.
After the first of the year, Maria also hopes to have breakfast available.International Bread Basket is located at 31 Merrimack St. in Lawrence, just one block off South Broadway.
Ample parking is available. The hours are: M-W 7-5, Th. and Fri. 7-4, Sat. 7-2 and Sun. 7-1. Phone: (508) 689-2291.

Board adopts $13.4M capital plan

original plan was an "oversight," according to Buzz Stapczynski, town manager. But Mr. Stapczynski also said the $3 million figure is a "mathematical extrapolation" of what will be needed and that the actual cost "could be more, could be less."

The amended CIP also moved up the appropriation of $1 million for open space acquisition from fiscal '95 to fiscal '94. That doesn't mean the money will be spent next year, but it will be available to buy parcels approved for purchase at previous town meetings if officials choose to do so. No money will actually be spent, or bonded, until properties are purchased.

Most of the parcels previously approved are in the Fish Brook watershed in West Andover. Other parcels the town might consider buying would still have to be approved by town meeting before they could be purchased.

The last change in the amended plan moved two $400,000 appropriations for sidewalk repairs up one year each, one from FY '96 to FY '95, and one from FY '98 to FY '97. Neither will affect the FY '94 appropriations. Selectman Larry Larsen wanted the sidewalk appropriations moved up to FY '94, but Mr. Stapczynski said an $80,000 surplus in the sidewalk repair fund this year will be carried over and available for repairs next year.

Other projects scheduled for funding next year, fiscal '94, include:

- Fish Brook water pumping station, $150,000;
- Street reconstruction, $825,000;
- Police cars, $124,000;
- Ballardvale fire station replacement space-needs study, $25,000;
- Fire alarm wiring, $95,000;
- Fire alarm truck, $80,000;
- Major school repairs and renovations, $2.4 million (approved at Special Town Meeting);
- Additional elementary classroom space, $6.6 million;
- Architectural and engineering plans for the additional elementary classroom space, $400,000 (approved at Special Town Meeting);
- Major outdoor facility projects (parking lots, playgrounds, etc.), $1 million;
- Municipal Maintenance vehicle replacement, $412,000;
- Voting equipment, $52,000.

News deadline at the Andover Townsman is Monday at 5 p.m.

Selectmen hire firefighters

By Don Staruk

Selectmen Monday night approved the hiring of two new firefighters, bringing to three the number of firefighters hired in the past month.

James Dolan, 39, of Lowell, and Luis Rodriguez, 29, of Dracut, both laid off from Lowell, were to begin work today. They replace the Keeler brothers, Charles and Russell, who retired in June and September respectively.

Robert McMullen, 33, of Lawrence, was hired last month to take a spot made available by the retirement in September of Deputy Chief Thomas Andrew. Lt. Lincoln Clark was promoted to deputy. Firefighter Todd Pomerleau was promoted to lieutenant and Mr. McMullen took Lt. Pomerleau's firefighter spot.

The new hires bring the force back up to 43 firefighters, one shy of the full 44-member contingent. Chief Harold Hayes hopes to fill the last spot in January.

The department now has 43 firefighters, 13 lieutenants, five deputy chiefs and the chief.

Boy Scouts protest jaywalking in Andover's downtown

A group of Boy Scouts attending this week's selectmen's meeting as part of a "citizens in the community" merit badge told board members they wish police would cite people for jaywalking when they don't use crosswalks downtown.

Brian Cutler, of 5 Tobey Lane and whose father, Charles, is the scoutmaster, said people just walk out anywhere on Main Street and expect traffic to stop for them. He said the town should notify all residents to use the crosswalks.

The scouts, from South Church's Troop 73, also brought up the issue of teacher pay - which board members deflected to the School Committee and expansion of the Merrimack Valley Transit Authority shuttle bus routes to provide access to the downtown for students who live in outlying areas.

They also asked selectmen to consider starting an entertainment center, with food, music and arcade games, where kids could congregate. The scouts said such a center would keep the kids off the streets and out of trouble, and would create another business downtown.

Scout Brian London asked the board to fix a traffic problem at Harold Parker Road and Route 125 by combining Harold Parker and Gould roads into one before they enter onto Route 125. Selectmen told the scout that a traffic light for that intersection is under consideration at the state level and that they are aware of the problem at the intersection.

Leaf composting success

The town composted 844 tons of leaves at the compost facility on High Plain Road this fall, Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, told selectmen Monday night. That's up from 326 tons last year and 282 tons in 1990. The town manager also wanted to remind residents that the facility is still open, should the snow melt and uncover the leaves.

Redistricting map approved

The board also approved a new districting map for the town. The map was put together by Harry Smith, town planner, and Randy Hanson, town clerk. Changes in the old map were necessary because of shifts in population. The map has been available for review for several months in the clerk's office, but Ms. Hanson said she has had no feedback from residents.

Some residents will find themselves in different districts and those people will be notified of the changes prior to the next state election, the only time the town divides residents by district for voting in two polling places.

Package store sells to minor in sting

By Don Staruk

Driscoll's Package Store, 5 Bartlett St., was reprimanded by selectmen Monday night for selling beer to a minor in a police sting operation carried out by Andover police last month.

The sting was in response to a request by Tim Thomas, Andover High School principal, to selectmen that police make an extra effort to stem sale of alcohol to minors. The request followed a high school dance this past fall at which a number of students allegedly showed up intoxicated, according to Mr. Thomas, and school officials believe the alcohol was purchased in town.

So on Friday night, Nov. 27, police

Sgt. James Hashem took his 20-year-old brother, Matthew Hashem, around to five different package stores in town, gave him $20 and sent him in to try to buy a six-pack of beer with the instructions not to try and push the sale if asked for identification.

Four of the stores carded the younger Hashem, but Driscoll's did not.

Jonathan Rutkowski, son of the Driscoll's manager and new owner, John Rutkowski, both of 9 Ellsworth Road, told selectmen he did sell the six-pack without asking for identification, but he could not positively say whether it was to the younger Hashem.

The younger Rutkowski, who turned 21 only last January, said it was a busy Friday night and he did not take the time to ask for the young man's identification.

"I, on my part, made a mistake," he told selectmen.

The board voted unanimously to send a letter of reprimand to Mr. Rutkowski as a warning for a first offense, as is consistent with past board policy.

Mr. Rutkowski faces the possible suspension of his alcohol license if there is another violation in the next 36 months. The Board of Selectmen is the licensing authority for the town.

Selectmen update:

Warrant opened; tin and Christmas trees to be recycled

By Don Staruk

Selectmen last week:

• Opened the warrant for April Town Meeting. It will remain open through Friday, Jan. 15. Town Meeting is scheduled for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 12, 13 and 14.

• Approved installation of deer crossing signs on Ballardvale Road where a number of the animals have been sighted by residents this year. At least five deer have been struck by cars and killed in town this year.

• Heard from Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, that the town would start recycling tin on the third Saturday of every month, beginning Saturday, Dec. 19, at the plastics and aluminum collection site at West Middle School. Beginning in January, certain batteries will also be accepted at the Middle School collection site. Full instructions on what will be collected, when and where are in the 1993 town calendar, which is to be mailed out later this month.

• Announced that Christmas trees will once again be collected and mulched by the town after the holidays this year. Trees will be collected curbside from Jan. 4-15 on the same schedule as recycling, and mulched and used for ground cover by the town.

• Signed commendations for the auxiliary police officers and members of the town's Civil Defense force, for their service to the town.

"It's just the town's way of saying thank you for many, many years of service at no cost to the town," said Selectman James Barenboim, a former auxiliary officer.

Auxiliary officers honored were Chief Robert Louis Merrill, Sgt. James F. Murphy, and patrolmen David B. White, Adolph Antonelli, Ralph Hanscom, David W. White, Hector Pattullo, James Fox and Richard Deyermund.

Don Mulvey: Diary of a young boy in Andover

Don Mulvey, now 60 years old and a resident of High Plain Road, recently came across the diary he kept as a young boy growing up in Andover. The entries trace six months of his life from November 1944 to June 1945, when he was 12 years old. This is the fourth installment of the diary published in the Townsmen.

Tuesday, Feb. 6: After school we had a game of teamtag. We got kicked out of there so we went downtown to the town hall.

We played a game that you have teams and hit each other with snowballs. Sully and me were walking through the place when a man came and took me by the neck and said you come into the police station and Sully said we didn't shoot any snowballs, we just came in a minute ago and I said no we've been in here before but we didn't shoot any snowballs. But the man took us into the police station and the policeman gave us a talking to. Tonight after patrol meeting Yogy, Curry and me were coming home when a car came up the street. Yogy shot a snowball at it and hit the window. Then he yelled that's the cop's car so we ran up through the backyards to Curry's while the cop chased us. Yogy went home and I went into Curry's house to get some tickets we bought to the Scout entertainment. We really didn't shoot any snowballs in the town hall. We shot them outside.

Thursday, Feb. 8: Big storm. The snow has drifted and it's about two feet high. This afternoon I went to the library and got Tree Toad and Penrod. I forgot I had already read Penrod. I didn't write yesterday because I went to the PTA meeting and got home too late. Southwick and me got kicked out of the school three times for fooling last night.

Friday, Feb. 9: Went to the show to see "The Princess and the Pirate" and "The Falcon in Hollywood." I feel awful sick. Went to the Scout entertainment. No school today.

Monday, Feb. 12: I almost had mumps. Saturday when I woke up I had an awful sore throat so I had to stay in bed. I had to stay in Sunday too. Today I was all better and this afternoon Mother let me go downtown to get a haircut and I got some ice cream with butterscotch, marshmallow and nuts. Then I went in and watched Lucy frost cakes in Ford's and I had a snowball fight with Young. No school because of the snow.

Tuesday, Feb. 13: This morning I woke up with a bad cold. Mother calls it bronchitis. She says I won't be able to go the dances tomorrow. There are two. In the afternoon there is the Glee Club dance. I am going to that with Nancy Schulze and at night there is the dancing school party. I think I will be alright. I hope so.

Sunday, Feb. 18: Warm. I got sick and stayed in all week. I missed four days of school. There is a vacation next week so I have two weeks out of school in a row. This afternoon Mother let me out for a while. I went to Curry's and we went downtown together. I got a raspberry drink. We didn't get in any trouble except that I got kicked out of Lowe's because Claudia tried to take my drink away and I pushed it all over her face and some of it went on the floor. Some of it went on me too.

Monday, Feb. 19: Cool. This morning I went downtown with Curry. Sully and me went to the Spa, then we went up to Wood's hill and Billy Kurth. Bob Gaines, Dee Penwell and Buddy Baldwin were there. We went to Kurth's house and had a snow fight. Sully, Buddy and Billy held the fort and we attacked. The fight was a tie. Then Fatso Guertin came and Sully threw a snowball at him. Guertin chased Sully. Sully slipped so he got caught and Guertin beat him up. Then everyone started plugging each other. After a few minutes Guertin, me and Sully sided up and the other four ran into the house. We pushed down some of their fort and then I said has anyone got a nickel. Roy Poland and some other kids chipped in and then we got Steadman to call up Kurth. He said Hello, this is Nancy (she is Dee's sister) Mother wants Dee to come home. So Billy called Dee and then Steadman left and gave the phone to Sully. Dee said hello Sully. So Sully gave the phone to Guertin and Dee said hello Gil and then hung up. Gil tried to get the nickel back but he couldn't. The operator just laughed at him. Mother thinks I am sick again.

Don Mulvey at 60

Tuesday, Feb. 20: Cool. Sully came up and we played some games. After we played a while Curry came over and we played another game then Sully and me went downtown while Curry took care of Susan because Mother was in Methuen. Curry and me are going to a show in Boston with Olga Thursday.

Wednesday, Feb. 21: I'm sleeping at Olga's. Cool. Nothing else in particular.

Thursday, Feb. 22: Rain. The rain is about three inches over the ice and everyone slips. It looks funny.

Saturday, Feb. 24: Cool. Didn't write yesterday because I was late from Scouts. This afternoon I went to see "Objective Burma" in Lawrence. It was real good. Afterward I went to confession.

Sunday, Feb. 25: Cool. Went to church and Sunday school. After Dad went to church I went to Lawrence with him. This afternoon had a fight with Wilson. Neither of us won. Mother was mad because we fought on Sunday. Oh I forgot I had a fight with Eddy Carey Wednesday. I won. I have fought three times in two weeks. I beat Warren Davis up in school a while ago. I have won two times and tied one time. Pretty good for me.

Tuesday, Feb. 27: Cool. Didn't write yesterday because Dad took me to the wrestling matches. Tiger Tasker beat Chuck Montana and Doc Murphy beat Nanjo Singh. We missed the first fight. It was awful funny because it is all just an act. Nanjo Singh is supposed to be from India. When he is hurt he kneels down and prays to Allah. Nothing much today except I went to Scout meeting but we didn't do anything after. Oh yes - up until this time I have been vice president of the class but I got a low mark in conduct. Jack McCarthy got kicked off too. I had to stay after for Old Lady Marshall. Jack and me were laughing so she made me go to the front of the room. I started looking back at John Foster and Jack and smiling. Old Lady Marshall said will you please leave the room and don't come back to this class again. She'll be sorry.

Wednesday, Feb. 28: Cool. It's getting to feel like spring. Yogy and me went downtown and played in the town hall and the Recreation Center and followed some alleys and climbed onto roofs. I got behind a wooden fence on Main Street. Yogy stood on the sidewalk and would tap the fence when a preppie went by. I would throw a piece of cloth over. The first time it hit a preppie on the arm and the second time it hit another preppie in the face.

TOWN OF ANDOVER CHRISTMAS TREE DISPOSAL

The Town of Andover will conduct a curbside pickup of Christmas trees on the designated recycling routes during the period January 4, 1993 through January 15, 1993. Residents may discard their Christmas trees (free of stands, lights and ornaments) before 7:00 A.M. on their designated recycling days during the two-week period starting Monday, January 4, 1993 and ending Friday, January 15, 1993. Trees should be placed at curbside near residents' recycling bins. Whole trees are preferable to cut-up trees. Please do not bag or box trees.

If trees are set out in advance of the pickup day, please place them where they will not be blown or otherwise moved to where they will block sidewalks or roadways. If trees set out before the pickup date become covered with snow, please uncover the trees before 7:00 A.M. on the pickup date.

Student test scores show improvement

The tests are given every two years statewide. Last year fourth-, eighth- and twelfth-grade students were tested. Students are tested for social studies, science, math and reading skills. Questions include multiple choice and open-ended questions to assess writing abilities.

Andover students scored as much as 100 to 200 points above the state average. Scores above or below 50 points difference are considered significant, said Ms. Woods.

South Elementary School students scored higher in all four subject areas than students in the other three elementary schools. Students at West Middle School also scored higher in all subject areas than students at Doherty Middle School.

Ms. Woods said the higher South and West Middle scores do not concern her at this time.

"It is a natural tendency to compare schools' scores. But if you look longitudinally at the scores (by subject area), the scores have gone up" since the last test two years ago, she said.

If MEAP results in 1994 show continued or larger gaps between Andover schools, then Ms. Woods believes that would be a telling trend. She credits the dedication of Andover's public school teachers with the above-average test results. [See Tom Meyers', president of the teacher union, letter to the editor about student test scores.]

Here's help in quitting smoking

Ex-smokers often need extra support and encouragement to adjust to a new way of life.

Many people find it hard to be around family and friends who are smokers.

Others look for advice from someone who has successfully quit.

"Quitters in Motion," offered by Winchester Hospital, is an ongoing support group for those who have quit or are trying to quit smoking.

This group may be used in conjunction with the nicotine patch as a patch advantage program.

The group will meet from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Wednesdays at the Winchester Hospital Health Promotion Center and costs $7 at the door.

on his constituents, such as Fort Devens and Hanscom Air Force Base.

Mr. Meehan plans to push for increased funds for economic conversion to enable defense contractors to diversify into commercial areas. He noted that defense conversion monies, which are $1.2 billion in the current budget, could increase to $7 billion in the next fiscal year.

"Economic conversion programs are going to be key for many companies in the Fifth District that currently rely on the Defense Department for their bread and butter. I plan to push for monies for the kinds of programs that will enable these companies to diversify into areas that will prove more lucrative for them in the 1990s," he said.

Noting that small businesses currently employ 60 percent of the people working in the United States, Mr. Meehan said that his Small Business Committee appointment will put him in a position to have an impact on the economic revitalization of the region.
